Deal; More Cash Sought

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—A $1,750,000,000 financing operation, designed both to wipe out the last of the World War's famous Liberty bonds and raise new cash, was announced tonight by the treasury.

It offered to trade new securities for 31,250,000,000 of old debts—the final block of the $8,000,000,000 of Liberties which helped finance war costs.

Paralleling this huge refunding, Secretary Morgenthau also asked the public for $500,000,000 in new money to build up the treasury's cash box.

War Debt Still Is Million.

Conversion into new obligations or currency of the $1,250,000,000 of fourth Liberties which have been called redemption October 15, will erase from government records the last of approximately $25,000,000,000 of war securities.

But in the refunded form, the public debt still will include about $15,000,000,000 of war costs.

Specifically Morgenthau's September 15, third quarter financing offer was: Holders of the maturing 4-14 fourth Liberties may exchange them for 10-12-year 2 3/4 per cent bonds, 3 1/2-year 1 1/2 per cent notes, or cash. The 1 1/2 per cent notes also are open to cash bids of $500,000,000, but the bonds may be obtained only on a trade-in basis.

Experts emphasized these features of the operation:

They said the conversion bond offering bore the lowest interest rate of any similar government security, despite the money-market's recent failure to subscribe fully to a $100,000,000 of 1 1/2 per cent 4-year paper.

Abandon Auctioning.

They noted the $500,000,000 cash borrowing was offered on a straight

Highway Fund Letter
Is Due This Morning

The letter from Acting Secretary of Agriculture R. C. Tugwell, designed to end the Georgia highway controversy, is expected to reach Chairman W. E. Wilburn, of the State Highway Board, this morning.

The letter was written after the highway board had agreed to accept five stipulations of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace for release of Georgia's $19,000,000 share of the federal highway fund and in it Mr. Tugwell is understood to have withdrawn the two stipulations to which the highway board failed to agree. It has been generally expected that the Tugwell letter will bring about release of the Georgia share of the fund.

Mr. Wilburn spent yesterday at his home in Oglethorpe and is expected at the capitol early today.

Googe Bitterly Flays Talmadge
In Labor Day Speech at Grant Park

Congressman Ramspeck
Heard in Discussion of Social Security Act.

A sarcastic attack on Governor Talmadge's "desertion of the championship of labor and the farmer for predatory interests" was a highlight of the address of George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, before thousands of holidaying Atlantans gathered yesterday afternoon in the Grant park amphitheater.

Mr. Googe's address and another by Congressman Robert Ramspeck featured an all-day program in celebration of Labor Day which included one of the most colorful downtown parades the city ever has seen.

"Labor regrets," Mr. Googe told his hearers, "that the Governor of Georgia has been a traitor to the laborer."

Labor, on Many Fronts, Intimates It Will Support Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Resounding speeches by labor leaders gave the country with varying degrees of forcefulness today a broad hint that they approved of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in careful language that the basis for a "better social and economic order has been laid."

Frank Morrison, secretary, related in his Labor Day address that in 1906 the federation had adopted the policy of standing by its friends and opposing its enemies. He outlined four new laws which he said were enacted through the aid of friends in

Governor Scores Labor Policies in South Dakota Holiday Address.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Eugene Talmadge, democratic governor of Georgia, tonight called on the north and south to join hands to sweep the Roosevelt administration from office in 1936.

Invading South Dakota for the first time in his ambitious drive against Roosevelt, the Georgian branded the administration "Labor's greatest enemy" in a speech prepared for delivery at a Labor Day meeting sponsored by the American Legion.

While he has made no direct avowal of his candidacy, Talmadge is widely regarded as a presidential aspirant.

"The present policies of the administration in Washington," he said, "have been the greatest enemies of labor, organized and unorganized, that it has ever known."

"When the policy of the government is to make jobs fewer, labor is the first to suffer. When the policy of the government is to cut down on production here and import products from abroad, it is slapping American labor in the face, and giving preference to laborers in foreign countries."

Directing his remarks to veterans of the World War, the speaker said "in commemoration of Labor Day, we call on the soldiers of this country to protect American labor from a blighting competition across the seas."

"Prosperity in Washington."

Since March 4, 1933, Talmadge said the federal government had spent more than $4,500,000,000 trying to bring back recovery in America.

"They have succeeded only in bring-

22 Killed, 100 Injured
By Blast in Mexico

SAN LOUIS POTOSI, Mexico, Sept. 2.—(UP)—Twenty-two persons were killed and 100 injured yesterday when 12 cases of dynamite exploded at the home of Martin Mendoza, of Villa De La Paz.

The dynamite was purchased by Mendoza after it had been stolen from mines near the town. Mendoza's body was blown to bits and several nearby houses were damaged.

PROBE OF COUNTY
TO REACH CLIMAX

New Grand Jury Takes Oath Today; Commission Meets Tomorrow.

Important developments in county affairs are expected today and tomorrow, as the September-October grand jury begins another probe of county business, and the Fulton county commission meets to consider the recommendations of retrenchment returned by the last grand jury.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, representing the July-August grand jury, will protest the service of Frank B. Eaves, county building engineer, on the incoming grand jury which will be sworn in and charged at 9 o'clock tomorrow by Judge Virlyn B. Moore, in Fulton superior court.

The outgoing jury opposed Eaves because it claimed his presence on the new jury would hamper the required investigation.

Edwin F. Johnson, leader of the majority faction of the county commission, was back in Atlanta yesterday, after having recuperated from an emergency operation undergone soon after the July-August grand jury began its probe of county affairs, but he had no further statements to make concerning the charges of waste and extravagance which the jury made against the three controlling members of the county board.

Though Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the commission, and Commissioner Ed L. Almond, other members of the majority bloc, and Johnson, did not definitely announce that stand they will take on the jury recommendations, it is expected they will express opposition to the presentment at the meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Commissioner George F. Longino, leader of the minority faction, and his ally, Commissioner J. A. Ragdale, will press for action on the jury recommendations tomorrow, they said.

Since the July-August grand jury was unable to obtain any decision whatsoever from the majority faction concerning its presentments, Foreman George W. McCarty and his jurors have requested the incoming grand jury to take up where they left off.

McCarty has offered to make available for the September jury any information or facts which the July-August jury gathered.

Judge Moore will select 23 of 30 persons drawn for grand jury duty this morning. The jury will be sworn in and charged at 9 o'clock tomorrow by Judge Virlyn B. Moore, in Fulton superior court.

The county building engineer was fired last year by Commissioner Longino, then chairman of the board, who did not make public the charges he had against Eaves. This year Eaves was reinstated by the majority faction of the commission.

AUTO ACCIDENTS
CLAIM 194 LIVES
DURING WEEK-END

Death Rate Is Placed at Nearly Three an Hour Over Nation; California Leads With 18 Fatalities

By the Associated Press.

Death traveled a speedy pace over the highways of the nation on the Labor Day week-end, claiming its victims at the rate of nearly three an hour.

Late last night the fatalities for the country in motor accidents numbered 194; the seriously injured more than 200. There were at least 14 additional deaths from drownings and other accidents.

National Safety Council headquarters had estimated several days ago that between 350 and 400 traffic fatalities would result from what it termed "death's favorite holiday."

Unfavorable weather for traveling—with widespread rains—contributed, however, in some sections to hold the casualty list under the council's forecast, which had estimated a rate of one automobile death every 17 minutes for the week-end.

California, with 18 dead, 14 in the Los Angeles area, led the states in losses. Missouri was second with 16. Illinois was third with 13 motor fatalities and one pedestrian killed at a train crossing. Reporting at least 10 deaths were Ohio, New York and West Virginia. Iowa had nine, in-

School Board Head and C. of C. President Will Be Leading Speakers.

Ernest J. Brewer, president of the Atlanta Board of Education, and Wiley L. Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will be among the leaders of the "flying squadron" of speakers urging ratification of the $1,775,000 bond issue for school and sewer improvements, G. Everett Millican, chairman of the bond campaign committee, announced yesterday.

Both Brewer and Moore have "pledged every assistance" in the drive for passage of the bonds in the September 18 election. Millican asserted and will be assigned to various speaking engagements when the aggressive campaign begins about the middle of the week.

"I want to do anything possible to obtain ratification of the bond issue," Brewer told Millican. "I pledge you my entire undivided and enthusiastic co-operation and hope that I may be of service to you."

"I believe the bonds should be passed, and I am confident that the voters of Atlanta feel as I do about the matter. It is merely a question of acquainting them with all the facts," Moore made a similar pledge, and scores of business, civic and political

The purpose of the strike, he said, would be to get a pay rate of $1 per hundred pounds of cotton picked.

Cotton pickers, said the union leaders, have been offered from 50 to 60 cents per hundred pounds of picked cotton this year, with some planters offering up to 75 cents as the season opens.

FLORIDA RESORTS
IN PATH OF WIND,
CITIES EVACUATED

Near-Hurricane Warning Extended Far Above Miami; No Word Heard From Rescue Train.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The fury of a tropical storm beat across the Florida keys tonight and as it whirled northward the entire southern tip of the peninsula was warned of possible hurricane winds.

Citizens of Key West breathed a sigh of relief as the storm center moved to the northward of the island city but those in mainland cities and towns all the way around the coast of the mainland from West Palm Beach to Punta Gorda on the gulf hastily took precautions.

An advisory at 10 p. m. placed the center of the disturbance near Matanzas Key, about 50 miles north of Key West and 75 miles southwest of Miami. A lighthouse keeper at Alligator Key, 75 miles northeast of Key West, reported a sustained wind of 80 miles an hour swept the keys in that vicinity around 9 p. m.

Only minor damage reports had been received. No word had come from Matanzas where a special railway train went late today to remove 500 veterans engaged in highway construction there.

Railway officials inclined to believe the train reached its destination but had not returned because of storm.

HARRIS AND LANIER
ATTACK GOVERNOR

Legislative Leaders Call on Workers To "Stop Talmadge" in Primary.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Two state legislators, speaking at a Labor Day rally today proposed a statewide movement by workers against Governor Talmadge should he enter the democratic presidential primary against President Roosevelt.

Wilmer D. Lanier and Roy W. Harris, Richmond county (Augusta) representatives, attacked the Governor's approval of the rally when they asked the gathering if those present were in favor of such a movement.

"We have got to stop him ourselves in Georgia," Harris told the rally. "I would be ashamed to let the people of Georgia be misled by a man like him. We have got to stop him ourselves in Georgia."

Lanier said "we have got to make a statewide fight against Talmadge to keep him from getting the nomination."

Both urged labor to support President Roosevelt.

The meeting was sponsored by Leon Carroll local union, United Textile Workers of America. Members of the organization have frequently expressed disapproval of Governor Talmadge's calling out of the national guard during textile strikes in Georgia.

Governor Talmadge, who was in South Dakota delivering an address against the "New Deal," is expected by political observers to enter the presidential preferential primary against President Roosevelt.

"I don't want anybody to think the postoffice department proposes to give the management over to the employees," he said, "but we'll give you the breaks every time."

Revenues of the postoffice are increasing steadily, Mr. Burke pointed out. There is no doubt that the post-office is "out of the red," he said.

He referred to signs of communism among certain groups, and drew cheers with the assertion, "There isn't any."

Great Britain Allows Steamship
To Unload Jap Arms for Ethiopia

Thousands of Tons of Ammunition in Another Boat Kept Aboard as France Refuses To Permit Discharge of Cargo in French Somaliland.

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 2.—(Via Imperial)—Thousands of tons of munitions from Japan, destined for Ethiopia, are in two cargo steamers on the Red sea. One ship is lying off Hodeida, Arabia, with a French torpedo boat standing by. It was intended to unload at Djibouti but France's complete support of Italy is evidenced by refusal of the French authorities to permit discharge.

The other ship has commenced unloading at Zeila, British Somaliland. A fleet of trucks is transporting the munitions immediately to the southern front where a general Italian attack is daily expected, and where it is certain that the heaviest fighting of the war will take place—not on the Eritrea front as hitherto expected.

One more ship from Japan is on the way, loaded with medical supplies. Ethiopia's general medical service is hopelessly inadequate, with no trained nurses and one doctor per 100,000 men. Girls prefer to nurse in the army or carry a rifle in the women's corps which is now being organized.

Assurances of invulnerability of Ethiopian territory and a sufficiency of munitions for six months are pious bluff. The reality is shown to be different. All shipments of armaments so far have been small munitions, rifles, machine-guns, sabers and revolvers. Ethiopia has no artillery to speak of, no tanks, no armored cars and not one bombing aeroplane.

POSTAL WORKERS
OPEN CONVENTION

40-Hour Work Week Promised Clerks by Deputy Burke in Speech.

A promise of a 40-hour work week for postoffice employees and the likelihood of thousands of substitute workers being raised to regular jobs, was given by Vincent C. Burke, deputy first assistant postmaster-general, in the principal address before the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks at its first official meeting yesterday in the Baptist Tabernacle.

More than 1,000 delegates and visitors, with headquarters at the Ansley hotel, attended the opening session and will meet here through Saturday. Postmaster-General James A. Farley, expected to make the principal address, was unable to come because of other duties, it was announced.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck, Postmaster Long Livingston, Luke Arnold, private secretary of Major Key; Homer W. Smith, president of Atlanta Local No. 32; Mrs. Marvin M. Jeddlock, president of the Atlanta women's auxiliary; A. L. Belle Isle, president of the Atlanta Convention Bureau, and A. Steve Nance, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, made short addresses of welcome.

Mrs. Herman Lowe, of Nashville, Tenn., president of the women's auxiliary, and Leo E. George, president of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, responded. Invocation was given by Dr. W. H. Knight, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, and Bernice Johnson opened the session by singing "America."

Five-Day Week Seen.

"All employees to whom the 40-hour week of work applies, who work on Saturday, will receive compensatory time on one of the five succeeding days, so long as it is practicable," stated Mr. Burke. "I believe the majority will have the five-day week and without impairment of existing post-office service."

"We expect thousands of additional jobs for substitute workers, and the jobs are going to civil service employees who've been waiting a long time," he said. "In replacing this present force, substitute workers will be promoted to regular jobs."

Mr. Burke said the administration in Washington intends asking local postmasters to schedule compensatory time on the same day each week, and official announcement of the 40-hour week would likely be made by bulletin Wednesday.

"I don't want anybody to think the postoffice department proposes to give the management over to the employees," he said, "but we'll give you the breaks every time."

Revenues of the postoffice are increasing steadily, Mr. Burke pointed out. There is no doubt that the post-office is "out of the red," he said.

COUNCIL TO RECEIVE ROAD FUND PROPOSAL

White Plan for $2,000,000 Allotment Will Be Studied Today.

Initial steps to obtain $2,000,000 of the $10,000,000 federal road fund for Georgia will be initiated at council meeting this afternoon.

Councilman John A. White, author of the measure, has the backing of the finance committee to move to set up a committee composed of Mayor Keefe, Councilman Aubrey Milam, finance committee chairman, and Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction, to appeal to the state highway board for the amount sought.

Under the act making the funds available to various states, it specified that 25 per cent of the aggregate should be expended in improvements within incorporated municipalities.

Among other major matters facing the council session, deferred because Monday was Labor Day, are:

1. A move by White to take from the table a proposal to establish a council-city manager form of government for Atlanta.

2. A request that Fulton county provide $500,000 as its share of the construction expense incident to the proposed modernization of the sewer system of the metropolitan area.

3. An ordinance by Councilman William G. Hastings, bearing the approval of the ordinance committee, to force bottlers of any drug or food sold in bottles to sterilize the containers before they are sealed and before any produce is placed in them.

4. A move, despite an adverse report of the ordinance committee, to force the city to expend about $500 in purchase of sirens for police cars and city-operated ambulances in the face of assertions by the members of the police committee and the Grand hospital board of trustees that the sirens are not needed.

5. An effort to force through another ordinance adversely reported by the ordinance committee to force peddlers of fruits and vegetables to obtain certificates from reputable doctors that they are free of communicable disease before they can peddle on Atlanta streets.

Sex Predetermined By Philippine Doctor

MANILA, Sept. 2.—Results which indicated sex of human offspring apparently were predetermined in two cases involving artificial insemination were revealed here today by Dr. I. Garcia, of the University of the Philippines.

In each instance, boys were born to mothers who previously had been childless. One of the births was recorded August 19, but in a second case the child died at birth, Dr. Garcia said.

The treatment utilized by Dr. Garcia, who is a member of the university's school of hygiene, involves use of electrical apparatus described as apparently able to separate male and female elements in spermatozoa. Complete details of the technique were not made known for the present.

Although comment was guarded, Dr. Garcia said he would continue his research and planned to present a formal report shortly.

Colleagues said they knew of no other instances here in which similar results had been done with human subjects.

Containers before they are sealed and before any produce is placed in them.

4. A move, despite an adverse report of the ordinance committee, to force the city to expend about $500 in purchase of sirens for police cars and city-operated ambulances in the face of assertions by the members of the police committee and the Grand hospital board of trustees that the sirens are not needed.

WAR VET BILL AMONG 7 VETOED BY ROOSEVELT

President Declares Philippine Soldiers Have Been Adequately Recompensed

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced tonight the vetoes of seven bills and the approval of one in his clean-up after the close of the last session of congress.

Abandoning the old method of "pocket vetoes,"

He stipulated his reasons for disapproval of the measures, which included one to pay traveling expenses of Spanish-American War veterans returning from the Philippine Islands after signing of the treaty of peace.

The measure approved is to permit the Menominee Indians, of Wisconsin, to sue the government in the court of claims to recover title to certain land.

Despite this batch of work, Mr. Roosevelt found time to indulge in some Labor Day leisure, visiting with friends at a luncheon at the family cottage across the Albany Post road on the home estate.

After luncheon he drove over the new road just constructed on the grounds—one similar to the farm-to-market roads included in the works-relief program. He expressed approval.

Mrs. Roosevelt left the luncheon to board a train for Winnetka, Ill., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Harold J. Postmaster-General Farley was also on the train. Other members of the cabinet are going from their Washington posts.

In vetoing the Spanish-American travel expense bill, the President stated:

"I am advised by the secretary of war there were approximately 15,000 officers and soldiers of the volunteer forces of the United States in the Philippine Islands at the conclusion of peace with the kingdom of Spain who would be beneficiaries of this act."

"The comptroller general in his report would authorize payment of travel pay at rate of 1 day's pay and 1 ration for each 20 miles inclusive of the distance by water from the Philippine Islands to San Francisco, approximately 8,000 miles and that such payments for the water travel alone will exceed 1 year's pay plus 1 day's ration for each day of such period. It is estimated the cost of the legislation will approximate $7,000,000."

"Congress has heretofore recognized the service of these officers and men by the award of a special medal, and there was also an allowance by the act of congress approved January 12, 1890, of two months' extra pay to all volunteers who served honestly and faithfully beyond the continental limits of the United States."

"I join most heartily in recognizing and appreciating the patriotic service of these men."

The other bills which were vetoed were private measures for the relief of various persons.

Secretary Morgenthau, a fellow Dutch county resident, came over from his farm home to visit with the President at the luncheon, Rexford G. Tugwell, under secretary of Agriculture, and administrator of rural resettlement, with Mrs. Tugwell, participated in the family luncheon.

Undoubtedly there was talk about finances and rural resettlement but there were no announcements.

Chance for Cousins.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Mayo clinic physicians tonight said "indications are very favorable for the ultimate recovery" of Senator James Cousin, of Michigan, a patient here for several weeks during which he underwent four operations.

SHIP CAPTAIN GETS SENTENCE OF DEATH

Russian Officer Accused of Letting 27 Perish on Blazing Tanker.

MOSCOW, Sept. 2.—(AP)—A steamship captain who stood by while 27 persons perished on a blazing tanker in the Caspian sea was sentenced to death today by the supreme court.

At the same time the court announced death sentences for two speculators convicted of receiving millions of rubles from the state bank's financing of bogus co-operative organizations.

The sea captain, tried at Baku, was named Krivos

HUNTERS SEEK CLUES OF MISSING GEOLOGIST

Disappearance of Joseph Ady Jr., Wealthy Miner, Is Veiled in Mystery.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 2.—(P)—Into the labyrinth of gold and other mines in which he was interested, Joseph W. Ady Jr., 33, geologist, disappeared today seeking some clue to the puzzling disappearance of Joseph W. Ady Jr., 33, geologist.

Three days of investigation left Inspector I. B. Bruce, Colorado Springs criminologist, no nearer a solution of the case than he was Friday night when Ady dropped from sight while dressing for dinner at his home.

The financial interests of Ady, whose father was a pioneer Newton, Kan., attorney and the author of the first prohibition law in Kansas, were widespread. From them Inspector Bruce hoped to find the clue that would solve the case.

Searchers poked through the passageways of mines near Cripple Creek, Col., in which Ady was interested. Mining men said a complete search of all the tunnels in the honey-combed gold and silver mining properties in that region "would take years."

Bruce questioned a number of Ady's friends, but could find none who had seen him since the geologist left his home here. His wife, Mrs. Olivia Burns Ady, widow of James F. Burns, mining multimillionaire, said she was convinced her husband met with foul play.

She said she called to her husband after he had gone to his room following his arrival from his office about the usual hour Friday evening. He replied:

A short time later dinner was announced and his wife called again, but obtained no response.

Nothing has been seen or heard from Ady since, Bruce said tonight.

CHILD, 3, MISSING.
FEARED KILLED BY WOLVES.
MEXICO, Mo., Sept. 2.—(UP)—

Searching parties hunting for a 3-year-old boy, John, lost in a wooded section near here since Saturday, today feared the child had been killed by timber wolves or had died from exposure.

National guardsmen, members of a near-by O.C.C. camp and neighbors resumed their search at daybreak today after 20 hours spent in densely wooded tracts near where the boy was last seen failed to produce any trace of him.

A steady rain that handicapped the volunteers Saturday night and Sunday had stopped and hopes of finding some trace of John was increased.

He was playing with his two brothers, 11 and 7, on their uncle's farm near here Saturday afternoon and wandered away.

HUNDRED SCOUTS SEEK MISSING YOUTH IN TEXAS.
DENVER, Texas, Sept. 2.—(UP)—

A half-hundred Boy Scouts volunteered their services today to search the vicinity for Robert M. Barnes Jr., son of a bank official, who disappeared mysteriously Sunday.

No trace of the youth, a student at North Texas Teachers' College, had been found since he left his father's bank and drove west out of town.

Police believe he was murdered or kidnapped. His father told officers he thought bandits had set upon the 22-year-old youth to get possession of his new automobile.

SECURITY UP TO STATES, SEC. PERKINS WARNS

U. S. Labor Chief Outlines Benefits to Typical Young Man.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—(P)—Responsibility for the complete success of the social security act was placed squarely upon the shoulders of the various states tonight by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Holding its enactment was "perhaps the most useful and fundamental single piece of federal legislation in the interest of wage earners in the United States," Miss Perkins declared "with the states now reeling the responsibility of devising and enacting measures which will result in the maximum benefits to the American workman in the field of unemployment compensation."

In a Labor Day address, broadcast over a nationwide hookup, from station WNAZ, the secretary explained the complicated mechanism which, as successive states threw it into gear, she asserted would result in "protection for the individual against future major economic vicissitudes."

Describing the social security act as "a sound and reasonable plan and framed with due regard for the present state of economic recovery," Miss Perkins reminded her hearers of the benefits to accrue to them under the act.

In telling them payments would start in 1942 to "those who have worked and contributed," she quoted the hypothetical case of "a typical young man of 35 years of age."

"Assuming that his income will average $100 per month over the period of 30 years until he reaches the age of 65, the benefit payments due him from the insurance fund will provide him with $42.50 per month for the remainder of his life. If he has been fortunate enough to have an income of $200 per month, his income will subsequently be $61.25 per month. In the event death occurs prior to the age of 65, 3 1/2 per cent of the total wages earned by him subsequent to 1936 will be returned to his dependents. If death occurs after the age of 65, his dependents receive the same amount, less any benefits paid him during his lifetime."

A feature of the plan, the secretary said, was its policy of co-operation between states and the federal government, with a view to "preserving the benefits of local administration and national leadership."

At the same time, Miss Perkins sounded a warning states take care to decide how contributions to the fund should be levied, so their "laws do not contain benefit provisions in excess of collections."

So far California, Washington, Utah and New Hampshire, the secretary revealed, have passed unemployment insurance laws in recent months. Wisconsin's law already was in effect, she said. Thirty-five states have old-age pensions statutes, she added, with mothers' pensions acts in force in all but three states.

LINDBERGH'S HOP OFF FROM RED LAKE FALLS

RED LAKE FALLS, Minn., Sept. 2.—(P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh took off in the colonel's plane at 3 p. m. today, continuing their trip which is expected to take them to the west coast.

As usual they failed to give any information regarding their next stop. The Lindberghs had been visiting the colonel's half-sister, Mrs. George Christie, here since Friday.

Practice Sprint Costly To Tech Track Aspirant

Ben Adair, 608 Juniper street, Georgia Tech student, believes he increased his speed yesterday for the 100-yard dash, but he is not sure as he was not clocked officially. The added incentive for more speed was a nickel-plated 32-caliber pistol in the hands of a holdup man.

Adair was training for the Tech track team and was taking a practice sprint through the woods between Tenth and Twelfth streets, back of Tech stadium when he was stopped by an unidentified white man.

"What you doing buddy?" asked the stranger.

"Training for the track team," replied Adair.

The stranger drew a pistol from his pocket.

"Hand over that wrist watch right quick," he ordered.

Adair did so.

"Now let's see what you can do on a hundred yards in," ordered the holdup man, waving the pistol.

Adair did. The watch was valued at $25.

KNOX SEES HIGH TAXES AS AID TO REPUBLICANS

Chicago Publisher Urges G. O. P. To Adopt Part of Democratic Plank.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(P)—Colonel Frank Knox said in a statement today "higher living costs" and "higher taxes" would aid a republican victory in 1936 because they were "uniformly fatal for the party which has to defend them."

Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News and frequently mentioned as a possible republican candidate, declared:

"It costs $1.80 today to buy the same necessities you could have purchased three years ago at your corner grocer for $1."

"This is the kind of an economic fact which everyone can understand. Its influence upon the voter is tremendous."

"At the same time," the speaker asserted, "the average weekly wage has gone down."

Urging republicans to adopt the portions of the democratic party's platform in 1932, which, he said, President Roosevelt had "repudiated," the speaker declared that such a platform plus the higher cost of living issue and its "twin," higher taxes, would pave the way for an "unprecedented victory (for the republicans) at the polls in November next year."

Making no reference to recent developments in the national political situation, several of which have concerned his own possible candidacy for the presidential nomination, Colonel Knox said the importance of a "clear, concise, courageous declaration of principles overshadows the selection of a standard bearer."

Colonel Knox said his recent trip to that region had convinced him the "entire east has returned to its former republican allegiance."

Two Killed in Crash.
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 2.—(P)—

Two truck drivers were killed and three passengers were injured today in a head-on collision of the trucks on the Troy highway about five miles from here. Vernon King, white, driver of a truck laden with cottonseed, and Paul Mack, Montgomery negro, driving an empty lumber truck, were killed almost instantly.

SEC WARNS TEACHERS OF BOND SALE SCHEME

National Educators' Mutual Association Attacked for "Untruthfulness."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(P)—The Securities Commission struck sharply today at what it called "an enterprise to deal in an irresponsible fashion with the small savings of school teachers."

Besides blocking a proposed nationwide issue of $750,000 endowment bonds by the National Educators' Mutual Association of Nashville, Tenn., the commission assailed the organization's officers, including certain Tennessee educators, for "demonstrated untruthfulness and misfeasance."

The nature of the case, said a commission statement, made it not only desirable but imperative to file these findings and this opinion, so that the untruthfulness and the misfeasance of the registrant's officers should be a matter of public record.

Prospects Warned.
The commission expressed the hope "no future prospect will be left unaware of the danger of entrusting the small savings derived from school teaching in the hands of men who upon this record and by their own admissions have demonstrated untruthfulness and misfeasance in positions of trust and confidence."

Lashing out at the contracts attached to "this so-called bond," the commission said "the supreme court has upheld the action of a state securities commission in debaring a contract as fraudulent whose terms were less scandalous."

The commission found that although the bonds, sold for $750 in five annual installments, were supposed to be redeemable in 10 years for $1,000, a parenthetical statement in "much smaller type" specified payment was to consist of $750 cash and $250 stock.

Issued for Dime.
This stock, described as having a "stated value of $50 a share," was issued to organizers of the association for 10 cents a share, the commission said, adding that the association has "now stipulated that the stated value of these shares is 10 cents." Instead of getting stock valued at $250 the commission said, the bondholder would get five shares which cost promoters "a mere 50 cents."

The evidence showed, said the commission, that Charles G. Pfah, of Nashville, executive vice president and director, "controls the registrant."

Examination of the scheme indicates, the commission continued, "that Mr. Pfah and his associates are to obtain the use of investors' money for 10 years, at the end of which time they agree to repay the principal."

But the commission concluded that profits, if any, would go to promoters and advisors "in the ratio of approximately 60 per cent and to the investing 'bondholders' in the ratio of approximately 40 per cent."

"Names Deceitful."
Besides listing Tennessee school superintendents as major officers, the prospectus listed $1 "advisory directors," most having designations such as "dean, principal, and superintendent."

"Obviously, this array of names—one hopes innocently lent—was intended to give an air of respectability and educational 'mutuality' to an enterprise that fortunately sought to register under the securities act," commented the commission.

It added that the association's name was admitted by Pfah to have the capacity of "being misleading in that it tends to create the impression of a connection with the National Education Association."

ATLANTAN IS FINED IN SHOOTING CASE

H. J. LeRoy Pays $425 in New Mexico for Wounding Clements.

H. J. LeRoy, agent for Fred Stokes, professional bondman, was released from jail in Las Cruces, New Mexico, and is on his way home following payment of a fine of $425 after he had pleaded guilty on charges of assault with intent to murder, it was learned here yesterday.

The charge grew out of the shooting of E. J. Clements, whom LeRoy was returning to Atlanta for alleged jumping of a $500 bond.

LeRoy was tried on August 14 and convicted.

At that time the judge delayed sentence until August 26, scheduled as the trial of the court term. A heavy storm flooded the city and court was delayed until Sunday, when LeRoy paid the fine and was released.

LeRoy's release followed a six-week period while he was held in jail pending the outcome of Clements' wounds.

Clements recovered. The fine brought the total cost of returning Clements to Atlanta to in excess of $1,700, according to Stokes.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS CITY'S LIQUOR LAWS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 2.—(P)—Authority of a Florida municipality to pass ordinances regulating sales of intoxicating liquors, within provisions of general state laws, was upheld today by the supreme court in a case from Lakeland.

So long as its ordinance is not in conflict with general state law, the court said, a municipality has the right to regulate the sale or possession of intoxicating liquors, whether the city is located in a wet or dry county.

Polk county voted dry in a local option election following repeal of the state wide prohibition amendment of the constitution.

EX-CONVICT ARRESTED IN MIAMI GEM THEFT

G-Men Nab "Fence" Suspect in New York Railroad Station.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Arrest of a pardoned Sing Sing convict, Robert C. Nelson, of Brooklyn, in the recent $155,000 Baltimore hotel jewel robbery case at Miami, Fla., was announced tonight by federal agents. He specifically is charged with conspiracy to violate the national stolen property act by allegedly being the fence from whom Noel C. Scaffa, private detective, purchased the jewels for $45,000 on March 6, last, for Lloyd's, of London.

Scaffa, known to authorities as a retriever of stolen jewels, now is awaiting sentence following conviction on three counts of perjury in connection with the Baltimore robbery. Federal agents said Nelson was taken into custody at the Grand Central station here Saturday night upon his arrival from Saratoga. He will be given a hearing tomorrow before a United States commissioner.

Nicholas Montone and Charles Call have been convicted and sentenced to 25 years for committing the robbery. With the arrest of Nelson, federal agents said they believe they now have in custody one of the biggest jewel "fences" on the eastern seaboard. He was convicted in 1931 as a receiver of stolen jewelry, but was paroled from Sing Sing after serving only a few months of a four-to-eight-year sentence in state court.

Since his release from prison, federal authorities said they have evidence to show he has been the receiver of stolen jewelry in at least five large jewel robberies, including the Miami Baltimore case, and involving gems valued at approximately half a million dollars.

The government agents charge Nelson gained possession of the stolen jewels at New York and offered them to Scaffa.

They said their evidence was to the effect the sale was made with the understanding that $15,000 would be returned in part for the use of the adjusters in paying rewards provided Scaffa could effect arrangements whereby Montone would receive $50,000 in the Florida courts. Scaffa thereafter visited various Florida officials in the interest of Montone.

HIRSCH BROTHERS GO TO NEW HOME FRIDAY

Store Will Hold Reception and Open for Business Saturday Morning.

Hirsch Brothers, located since 1899 at 74 Whitehall street, are moving into new quarters this week at 79 Peachtree street, opposite the Georgia Savings Bank (Flatiron) building. The store will be open for business Saturday morning, September 7. The firm, moving for the first time in 45 years, was established in 1892. It is Atlanta's oldest clothing store and one of the largest and most substantial clothing establishments in the southeast.

"We have observed for some years," said an executive of the company, "the trend of men's clothing stores to the opposite side of town, but resolved to remain here as long as it was more convenient for the majority of our customers."

Although a large number of our customers reside on the south side, and will remain there perhaps all of their lives, a substantial number confess that it is more convenient for them to do their shopping north of Five Points.

"So, in choosing a new site, it was again with the view of locating as near the center of our trade as possible, which is but a few short blocks north of the old stand."

"Although the new place will be more modern and spacious than the old, and many new customers will doubtless come to us there, we shall never lose sight of the fact that it is our regular customers, the old-timers, if you please, we must in a large measure thank for what success we have achieved."

The public is invited to an informal opening from 1:30 to 11 o'clock Friday. No goods will be sold during this time, giving old and new friends an opportunity to go through the store, viewing the new fall merchandise.

CATHOLIC CRITICISM FAILS TO STIR NAZIS

Sale of Pastoral Letter Is Forbidden in Berlin by Police.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—(AP)—An openly critical pastoral letter from Catholic bishops, read Sunday in all churches of the faith throughout the third reich, failed to cause even a ripple today in Nazi government circles.

One of the ministers closest to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler said privately the government considers the Nazi regime to stand so solidly now that nothing could shake it.

Berlin police took no chances, however, and promptly forbade sale or distribution here of the letter.

The non-Catholic public knew nothing of the development. Not a single German Monday newspaper brought the Associated Press offices brought even a reference to the letter.

Catholics took a more serious view of the situation. Trained in the reading of ecclesiastical language, they said several closing sentences of the letter contained a threat of direct importance, despite their seemingly mild wording.

"It is possible, however, for the candlestick of the faith to be removed from individual countries which prove wanting in the hour of trial. (Revelations 2, Verse 5.)"

To many Catholics, this signified a veiled threat of interdiction, which would mean that church baptisms, burials and holy communion would not be administered to Catholics within Germany.

BANDIT GIVEN 50 YEARS IN ROBBERY OF BANK

PRENTISS, Miss., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Ralph Fultz, 29-year-old Texan, today changed his plea from one of innocence to guilty to "robbery with firearms," a capital offense, in connection with the robbery last March of the bank here which was executed by Raymond Hamilton, the lately-executed southwest desperado.

Fultz was sentenced immediately by Judge Harvey McGehee in Jefferson Davis county circuit court to serve 50 years in prison. The charge in pleading was made when his case was called for trial.

Fultz had entered a plea of innocence Saturday at his formal arraignment for trial.

TIERED and PEPPLESS

No wonder so many of us get up in the morning feeling as tired as when we went to bed—no wonder the world looks blue. If your stomach is full of a thing like vile, rancid vinegar, your food doesn't do you much good. You get only what comes from a sour fermenting mass. You can't help but lose strength, get nervous and feel exhausted all the time. If this acid gets over into the blood it upsets their action and you get constipated. Then toxic poisons get into the blood and start a lot of things like headache, rheumatic pains, bladder irritation, etc.

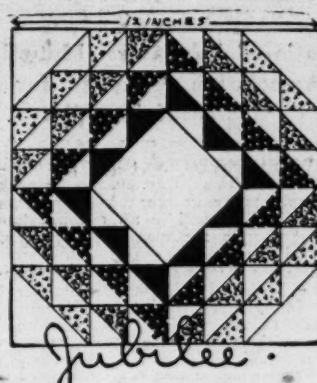

Don't take salts or purgatives to clean out this sourness—they flush out vital body fluids and leave your system dry and inflamed without helping the cause. Try Placidin, the new medical discovery with the double action. Placidin WIPES out excessive acidity without disturbing the stomach juices. It forms a soothing coating over raw irritated membranes and helps stop the burning of more burning acid. You get RELIEF at once from gas and acid indigestion. Take Placidin regularly for a short time and you'll soon rejoice at the astonishing return of vigor.

NOTE: Say NO if something else is offered to you as being "just as good." You have taken these substitutes before and they did you no good. Insist on Placidin.

NANCY PAGE

Nancy Designs a "Jubilee Quilt" of Her Own.

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

each other than the white square, a pattern for which is given also, had better be used.

The color scheme may vary, of course. Some women will want to have all the blocks alike, even using the same color and material for all the triangles of color. Others will use the suggestion given here of having small triangles of solid color around the center white. Then beyond that comes a row of print with fairly dark ground of the same general color as the plain material. Beyond that comes a light or print, still in same color family and beyond that a white background print with just hints of color, perhaps small polka dots.

As Nancy pointed out the color arrangement will alternate. One square will have dark triangles bordering it, working out to light and the four white squares attached to the lightest print will work the color sequence the other way. Nancy is sure that any arrangement of this quilt will be effective.

She cautions all the quilt makers to be sure that the pieces are of colorfast material, that they are cut true and straight and that seams are fine and even. No seam allowances are made on the cutting patterns as given in the direction sheet to allow one eighth to one-quarter inch on all sides.

The actual pattern for "Jubilee" design may be obtained by sending three cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Nancy Page in care of The Atlanta Constitution. Back patterns may be secured by sending an additional three cents for each pattern requested.

South Will Map Rate Battle At Session Here This Morning

Plans for a southwide battle against what are termed discriminate freight rates differential against the south will be mapped here today at a conference of southern rate commissions and shippers.

The conference, called by Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, of the Georgia Public Service Commission, will open at 10 o'clock this morning in the senate chamber of the state capitol.

Wilhoit said yesterday that representatives from the rate-making bodies of North and South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Tennessee would be in attendance in addition to representatives of a number of traffic associations.

The purpose of the meeting, the Georgia official pointed out yesterday is to bring about a concerted drive to reduce southern interstate freight rates to the level now in effect in what is known as "official territory," that section lying east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio rivers.

"Southern industry as well as southern agriculture has been hampered greatly for a number of years by the high rates in effect in this section," Wilhoit said in discussing the conference. "If a southern industry ships something to the north it costs 27 per cent more than if the same product is shipped from the north to the south. We have never before gone after these high rates in unity and tomorrow we hope to get something started which will end rate discriminations for all time."

The Tennessee commission will attend the meeting in a body and one or more representatives are expected from the other states.

COTTON LOAN DETAILS EXPECTED THIS WEEK

Officials Take Every Precaution To Guard Plan Until Official Release.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—High farm officials indicated today details of the government's 1935 cotton loan-subsidy plan probably will be announced this week.

Foregoing the holiday accorded to the several thousand AAA employees, some officials continued work on the plan to pay a subsidy of not more than 2 cents a pound for cotton grown under Bankhead allotment. The same secrecy which attended negotiations over the loan plan surrounded the conferences on details. It was indicated the executives did not want anything said about the subsidy payment arrangements until the complete program could be announced.

Countless requests for information concerning the 10-cent loan and the subsidy to raise farmers' income to 12 cents a pound had been received. There were reports the plan to lend 10 cents a pound to adjustment contract signers would not differ greatly from the plan under which 12-cent loans were made last year. But new machinery appeared necessary for payment of the subsidies, to be made on the basis of the daily average price of cotton at the 10 spot markets.

It was considered possible an effort would be made to decentralize the machinery and to have the payments made from the field through regional, state or county offices, rather than from headquarters at Washington.

Officials said no difficulty would be found in obtaining the daily average price of cotton, since this estimate already is being made by agriculture department economists. Arrangements must be made, however, to obtain records showing the daily sales by contract signers under Bankhead allotments, and to learn the weight of the cotton sold.

Parent and Child

Having taught in every grade, I venture to speak, in my imagination, as a teacher, on the early morning of the first day of the new school year. A new year begins today. I want to make it my best year as a teacher. First I want to keep physically fit. If I am to do my best, I must exercise good health habits. I must get ample sleep, rest and recreation. I must watch my nerves so I can be master of my emotions, so I can have poise, so I can use my energy without wasting it, plan and prepare my work without worrying about it, solve my problems without fretting over them.

I want my pupils to think of me as a cheerful, optimistic person. I want to be able to smile freely and to radiate a happy atmosphere. I want to exercise good posture, and be neat and tidy in dress and person. My voice I want to use attractively, keeping it pitched low, never talking louder than I should. I want to be a good model in the use of correct English. I want my speech to have clearness, simplicity, variety—pleasing for my pupils to hear.

Would Be Just.

I want my pupils to think of me as fair and just. I want them to think of me as one who tries to see a little as they see, feels a little as they feel, and understands a little as they understand.

I want my pupils to know I have standards of conduct and achievement which I am to hold them up to and abide by myself. I want to prove to them I have integrity. Most of all, I want my pupils to feel that I honor and respect the personality of every human individual. In spite of all my shortcomings, I want those I teach to know that I am striving to become a more worthy teacher and more worthy fellow human being.

The letters I receive from teachers, in care of this paper, are especially welcome.

Editor's Note: A pamphlet by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of The Atlanta Constitution. The pamphlet is "Fear."

WOMAN "FORGETS" $50 HOLDUP OF HUSBAND

A negro bandit Saturday night held up Mr. and Mrs. Louis Proger in their grocery store at 803 West Hunter street and took $40 from Proger's pockets and $10 from the cash register. Mrs. Proger reported yesterday to police.

"Why didn't you report the holdup earlier?" police asked.

"I was busy and forgot about it," Mrs. Proger said.

The offices of the Harbor Plywood Corporation, 645 Whitehall street, were ransacked early yesterday morning and a knob was knocked from the safe. A typewriter was the only missing article, police were informed.

Miss Gerber says nightgowns are "all right for divas of plump proportions but that they look funny to people nowadays."

"Camels don't get your Wind" FAMOUS SWIMMERS AGREE

Champion swimmers speak with authority when they discuss sound wind—healthy nerves—and Camels. Buster Crabbe, champion in the 400-meter free-style Olympic event, calls himself "a consistent Camel smoker." This can be seen from his latest photograph, reproduced on this page. "I have smoked Camels for years," he says. "If you go in for sports at all, I'd advise Camels. You'll find, as I did, that Camels are so mild they never get your wind or cut your endurance."

What Crabbe says is confirmed by Helene Madison; by Jane Fautz, the Chicago girl who rose to Olympic fame; and by Stubby Kruger and Josephine McKim. So turn to Camels. CRASH INJURIES FATAL TO ICKES CAR'S DRIVER

Chauffeur for Cabinet Member's Wife Dies Without Explanation of Wreck.

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 2.—(AP) Frank Allen, who Mrs. Harold Ickes, wife of the cabinet member, once described as the "world's best driver," died today without giving authorities his explanation of an auto accident in which Mrs. Ickes was killed.

District Attorney David Chavez said he plans a more extensive investigation into the accident which occurred at the mouth of rugged Rio Grande canon Saturday. He said, however, there was no evidence to support first reports that a "hit-and-run" driver in a black sedan had struck the car driven by Allen with Mrs. Ickes, Ibrahim Seyfullah and Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick as passengers.

Chavez said charts made by state police indicated Allen had driven on a soft shoulder, tried to turn back but turned too sharply, then tried to right himself but the speed was too great and the car skidded 87 feet, then catapulted 80 feet before landing to turn over three more times.

The district attorney said he plans to take statements from Seyfullah, attaché of the Turkish embassy at Washington and Miss Herrick, Washington newspaperwoman. Allen was unconscious until late yesterday and was unable to give a statement before his death today. Seyfullah and Mrs. Herrick are recovering from pelvic fractures.

Allen had driven for Mrs. Ickes on her western trips for more than a decade.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

The Judas Goat.

The most sincere admiration goes to the player who is resourceful enough to put his opponents in a position to guess wrong—particularly if he can contrive some misleading hint in the fall of his own cards. Just as the expedition of the flock from railroad to slaughter house is led by a trained goat (called for obvious reasons the Judas goat) so too the clever dealer can sometimes provide a Judas goat to lead the opponents astray.

Having reached what seemed from the bidding an easy game in today's hand, North was disappointed to find that unless West held the Ace of hearts dummy's strength would apparently provide tricks only when it was too late.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's immediate raise of spades rather than mentioning his own heart suit was based on the Principle of Preparedness. Not being quite strong enough to show both his hearts and spades, he correctly decided to raise the spades immediately and allow partner to make the decision as to whether to try for game.

The Play
East's hand offered a choice of three almost equally undesirable leads, and he therefore decided to make the "safe" opening of a trump. Procrastination of this nature is not usually good practice, although there are of course times when it cannot be avoided. In this case, it set the stage for North's brilliant "psychic play."

Winning the opening trump lead with dummy's Jack of spades and being careful to unblock with the ten to leave the eight as a second entry to dummy, declarer rapidly counted tricks. If West had the Ace of hearts, contract was assured, and there was even some possibility of making an extra trick if the diamond finesse worked. If East had the Ace, however, discarding a club on the first heart lead would still leave two losers in the club suit, and although North could discard two diamonds on the set up hearts, making the hand would depend entirely on the diamond finesse. This of course assumed a club return, but with a club discard an immediate shift to that suit appeared unavoidable.

From this process of reasoning came North's inspiration. East had shown by his opening play of a trump that his lead presented problems. If a club discard would induce him to lead clubs, then why should not a diamond discard coax him to lead diamonds?

Dummy's King of hearts was led and when West played low, North tossed his Judas goat, a diamond discard, to lead the lamb to slaughter. Alas, poor East. With no better guide for his shift than West's discard, he docilely followed the goat. After his diamond return there was nothing to the hand. Declarer laid down a high spade to guard against a bad break, re-entered dummy with the spade eight, chucked two clubs on the hearts and cheerfully conceded a club and a diamond. Score: Opponents 3—Declarer 9—Goat 1. And since the goat belonged to declarer he had scored his game.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPT. 3, 1935.

LABOR'S HOST ON PARADE

The impressive parade yesterday by the hosts of labor, and the unusual extent to which Labor Day was observed by the citizens of Atlanta, whatever their pursuit, signifies the new place of the worker in the economic and governmental structure of the nation.

The far-reaching reforms accomplished by the Roosevelt administration toward the social and economic progress of the workingman and his family were reflected in the squared shoulders and the confident stride of the thousands of organized workers who wended their way through streets lined with thousands of their fellow citizens.

Well might the spirit of labor be strong and hopeful on the day set aside for an annual salute to its accomplishments and hopes. To an almost universal extent the "forgotten men" of labor are no longer forgotten; as their present status has been benefited, their future security, and that of their dependents, has been accorded greater assurance; and labor has been given a new realization of its responsibilities for the public weal and of the necessity for wholehearted and unselfish co-operation toward the public good.

As labor has made its greatest advance in influence and betterment during the two years of the democratic administration, it has likewise entered a new era of increased obligation to community, state and nation.

It is fitting that in the new sphere of the workingman, yesterday's observance of Labor Day should have been the most impressive in the history of the city, and that it should have been so cordially acclaimed by the public as a whole.

THE POSTAL CONCLAVE

Every resident of Atlanta should join in extending hearty welcome to the thousands of delegates and visitors brought to the city for the 19th annual convention of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks.

To a unique degree the men and women in attendance upon the convention now in session play an important part in the affairs of every business house, office and home in the land. The service of no other group of public employees is more universal, continuous and frequent in the business, social and home affairs of the country.

Postal service has gained standards of efficiency in the United States never attained in any other country. In many other countries, even those counted among the best governed, the delivery of mail is attended by both uncertainties and delays.

In America a business man knows when he posts a letter that it will be delivered in his home community within a few hours or, if for a distant point, that it will be placed on the first possible railroad or air schedule.

It takes more than an efficient system for the attainment of such a degree of perfection as has been reached in the postal service in America. The chief responsibility rests with the alert and energetic men and women through whose hands millions of letters pass daily, and to them must go full measure of credit for the record established by the post office department of the United States government.

It is to be regretted that Postmaster General Farley's engagements in the west prevented his intended attendance upon the Atlanta convention, but in his place will come his two chief assistants—

Deputy First Assistant Burke and First Assistant Howes.

To these distinguished government officials, as well as to every delegate to the postal clerks convention the municipal government has extended a warm and sincere welcome and this greeting should be echoed by every resident of the city.

NO MORE WAR—FOR US

With a feeling throughout the world that the League of Nations will be unable to prevent Italy attempting the conquest of Ethiopia, Great Britain endeavoring to drag the United States into diplomatic complications concerning this problem; the prospect of Great Britain and France being forced into the conflict from some angle, and with Hitler waiting for pandemonium to break loose, citizens of the United States have cause for satisfaction in the action of this country in enforcing strict neutrality toward all belligerents, be they whom they may.

The United States has learned its lesson; it poured billions of dollars into a European conflict in which it had no part; the blood of its citizens was shed in a mistaken idea that the world was being made safe for democracy; the under dog was being whipped and wanted help—that was all.

We helped the under dog to win, yet affairs in Europe are in a worse state than they were. The nations we helped have repudiated their debts to us, and sneer at us for being such goofs as to expect fair treatment, or their friendship, after they had used us for their purpose.

The American people are through with foreign wars for all time. Europeans may tear at each other's throats all they like; they will get plenty of punishment, and deserve it; but they will get none of our money or men, and our munitions companies will not be permitted to entrench us by selling combatant necessities for carrying on their conflicts. If our nationals, after due notice, get into the danger zones, on land or sea, that will be their own funeral. We will not get into the conflict because some American who should be at home blunders into the line of fire, or goes down with a ship that is torpedoed because it belongs to one of the belligerents, and on which he had been notified that travel on it was at his own risk.

THE LESSON OF THE PIMENTO

Announcement that Georgia will this year harvest and can 10,000,000 pounds of pimento peppers emphasizes to an unusual degree the extent to which this state is a land of agricultural opportunity. No pimento peppers were raised in Georgia prior to the importation some 30 years ago of a few seed from Spain which were planted in Spalding county as an experiment. From these seed were developed a variety that not only grows freely in Georgia but which is the equal of that grown in any section of the world.

Not until after the close of the World War was the production of pimentos started on a commercial basis. Now in little more than a decade and a half the industry has an investment of $1,000,000 in canning plants alone, is bringing new revenues to more than 3,000 farmers and has a total return of nearly a million dollars a year.

In many sections the pimento has caused cotton production to practically disappear. The same is true in other sections in which tobacco, peaches, watermelons, tomatoes, peanuts and other crops furnish a certain source of lucrative returns.

Cotton will always remain Georgia's basic money crop, since it can be raised in every county in the state, while the areas in which the other money crops can be raised are in most instances somewhat limited, but the development of these auxiliary crops will release the farmers of Georgia from the bondage to cotton which has spelled disaster to them in the past when prices have dropped below the cost of production.

Not only will the new money crops bring additional millions into the state each year, but they constitute an insurance against disaster should cotton prices in future hit the toboggan.

They said air-conditioning the capitol would improve the legislation. What do our truth-in-advertising agencies propose to do about this?

Let us be patient with Mr. Hitler. He promises a cleaner and finer Germany just as soon as the rough church-going element is crushed.

"An engineer prophesies our great-grandchildren will fly to Mars by rocket." Well, just so they stay inside the solar system and are home for supper.

We judge from press photos drifting in from Addis Ababa, that when an Ethiopian is thoroughly scared the hair lies down.

Health Talk

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

From the June issue of Clinical Medicine and Surgery:
"Back of the rectal clinic, Massachusetts general hospital, says that since the clinic was organized in 1928, the number of hemorrhoidectomies (surgical excision of hemorrhoids) has steadily decreased and that in 1932 there were only five. This figures show how successful is the injection treatment. During that time 359 cases were treated by injection. There are still a few old-fashioned surgeons who pretend to be competent physicians, surgeons or even proctologists (rectal specialists) so blooded and bloodward that they just can't master the technique of this modern method, and so in self-defense they conjure up all sorts of fanciful objections and try to persuade unsophisticated patients to submit to the comparatively crude and atrociously uncomfortable surgical removal of hemorrhoids."

These old fogies are well represented at the American Medical Association headquarters, from which high and holy source emanates the following quaint bit of propaganda:

"It would not seem logical to inject an irritating substance outside of this sac. . . . Furthermore, treatment by the injection method requires considerable time, as it has to be repeated at intervals. . . . If an operation in performed patients are able to return home in a comparatively short time. . . ."

To be sure these gratuitous objections are ascribed to "well known" and "anonymous" authorities, a trick of the American Medical Association propaganda department. Also the well-known unknown was sounding off about the injection treatment of hemorrhoids. But it should be obvious to any physician who knows anything about the subject, that the well-known surgeon did not know what he was talking about, for as a matter of fact it takes less than one-tenth of the time to cure hemorrhoids by the injection method than it does to cure by the radical operation. Furthermore, the injection method does not detain the patient from his regular business or work, while the surgical operation keeps him in hospital and disabled for a month or more.

Dr. Thomas F. McNamara, of Rochester, N. Y., outstanding in the injection treatment of hemorrhoids and author of a book on the subject for physicians who wish to learn the method, holds that a single session should suffice to give complete and lasting relief in nearly all cases, or, if anything further will be necessary, as Dr. McNamara has treated hundreds of patients by the injection method, ought to know what he is talking about.

Any intelligent layman who permits an old fog surgeon, physician or specialist to divert him from electing the modern injection treatment in lieu of the comparatively atrocious operation, is just too naïve, that's all.

In Far Corners

—Lake Region—

A great shallow sea lay over a large part of the northeastern United States 300,000,000 years ago. Tentative reconstruction of the geography of the present-day Lake Michigan region is made possible by discovery of similar and approximately equal fossil deposits in northeastern New York, southeastern Ontario and northeastern Michigan, according to a report to the Smithsonian Institution by A. S. Warthin, of Vassar College and G. A. Cooper, of the staff of the United States National Museum.

This ancient sea, they have determined, covered most of New York, Ontario, Michigan and the surrounding country, and with a great island, or possibly an area of very shallow water, elevated in the territory now covered by most of Lake Erie, Ohio, Indiana, and southern Michigan. The approximate outlines of this low island can now be determined by the remains of the coal plantations which fringed its shores. In Michigan, certain certain coral reefs, or huge heads as much as 50 feet in height. These were not connected to form a single reef, but made innumerable small islands and peninsulas. These reefs, or "bioherms" are reflected especially in the topography about the present Alpena, Mich., and along the coast of Lake Michigan, where small, conical hills. On the margins of the coral masses a variety of other creatures lived. Crinoids, or sea lilies, were especially abundant. Some of them were of large size and great beauty. There is probably no known Devonian locality so productive of fossil sea lilies, and many of the specimens collected for the National Museum represent species new to science.

The Aga Khan.

East of Suez the Aga Khan is a divinity to several hundred thousand Khoja Mohammedans. He is the pope of millions of Ismailian Mohammedans and the spiritual leader of the great Shia sect. And by virtue of his direct descent from the Prophet, abetted by inclination, he occasionally ventures to speak for the 250,000,000 souls who comprise the Shia.

In Europe, where the Aga Khan spends eight months of the year, presumably for reasons of health, he is renowned for his affluence, spending and his beautiful French wife. Yet it would fall far short of the truth to describe the Aga Khan as an ascetic in assuming the role of a Moslem pope in India and enjoying himself as a pleasure-seeker in Europe.

For more than a quarter century—until a few months ago—the Aga Khan was the political leader of the Moslems of India's 80,000,000 Moslems, a responsibility that he took very seriously. A sincere friend of Great Britain, and a believer that without British rule India would lapse into civil war and chaos, he has been a pillar of support to the British Raj.

Europe, though knowing the Aga Khan best as a sportsman, has also been his friend. He was chairman of the British India delegation to the Round-Table Conferences in London in 1930-31, and he has shown great skill and vision in guiding the Moslem world through the complications of the present. He is a man of great charm, a diplomat, an orator, a social reformer, a statesman, a sportsman, a bon vivant and a playboy. Tonight he is a divinity dressed in evening clothes and top hat; tomorrow morning a fat pope punishing the big Englishmen have given him the rarest title they confer on Orientals—that of gentleman. Bridging east and west as no one else has done, the Aga Khan is the most cosmopolitan and colorful personality of our time.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

SPENDING WASHINGTON

A liberal New Deal official recently from a scouting trip through the east with the strange news that even the local democratic politicians are against the spending program.
His conclusion, which already has been reported higher up, is that the political advantages of spending have been spoiled. Red tape, frequent changes of plan and the Hopkins-like attitude toward the politicians are contributing causes.
All down the inside line, similar talk has been increasing here. If state, local and county political authorities join the chorus, some entirely new arrangements may be expected.

President Roosevelt told the departing congressional leaders that he would not have much to submit to congress next session. The implication was that he is not seriously apprehensive about reverses in the courts this fall; that the reform program is temporarily complete; that election is coming on.

The leaders, however, were not impressed. They have heard that before.

CEMENT

An indentation was left in the cement floor of the new supreme court building, just to fit the carpet. The only trouble was that the indentation was about six inches (believe it or not) too deep. Cement is now being filled in to the proper point. Attendants have suggested that the New Dealers would have been able to stand it if some of the justices had sprained their ankles in a group before deciding on pending cases.

MEDICINE

The Brookings Institute is cooking up some "more medicine for the New Deal." A report is being prepared on the gold policy and its effect on prices. It will be out in about 60 days. The institute is non-political, but its critical analyses of New Deal policies (remember the NRA) have furnished more data for political viewpoints than any other agency. This particular study is being financed by a special appropriation from the Rockefeller Foundation.

RUMBLING

A non-political protest against the National Youth Movement was made by a prominent educator, Professor George Drayton Strayer, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, not long ago, but did not get into the papers. It was in an address to teachers questioning the tendency toward central federal control of education. "No greater danger to democracy can be found," said Professor Strayer, "than resides in the organization of a central control over education which may at any time be used for the purposes of propaganda and which is entirely suited to the needs of those who would develop a fascist state."

$25,000 CLUB

Among the measures which did not get through congress was the Black lobby registration bill. It would have required all lobbyists to register and to disclose their compensation. It was killed by the American Bar Association because its provisions would have blanketed attorneys and thus was considered an indignity to the legal profession. However, some of the credit is really due to a couple of high-priced democratic lawyers here. They are members of the unofficial "$25,000 Club," so called because members favor that amount as a fee.

PENSIONS

When President Roosevelt signed the Spanish War veterans' pension bill, he said: "This establishes no ground of precedent for pensions for the World War group; theirs is an entirely different case."
Apparently the representatives of World War veterans did not hear him. At least the VFW crowd, headed by James Van Zandt, is organizing to push for a uniform pension idea. They figure that the bonus is already a certainty, that it will be enacted in January. They are right about that.

Also, enactment of a pension system is only a question of time. It will not come next year because the bonus bill will satisfy the veterans' vote for at least one more election. Most legislative authorities, however, consider it a certainty within five years.

PREPAREDNESS

A prominent union official called at the SEC the other day to get copies of the regulation statement of the firm whose employes he speaks for. He wanted to learn something about the internal financial position of the firm so he is in a better labor bargaining position.

MISUNDERSTANDING

It seems that the only reason Vice President Garner is going to Japan is that he has no message for the Japanese and no purpose beyond his Philippine arrangements.

FIGHT FOR CASH BONUS OUTLINED BY BELGRANO

Veteran Makes Attempt To Prevent Commander's Address at Little Rock.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 2.—(AP) National Commander Frank N. Belgrano, of the American Legion, today outlined the organization's fight for immediate cash payment of adjusted certificates before the Arkansas department convention after a delegate had made a vain attempt to prevent delivery of his address.

The delegate, Curtis Cannon, of Hope, former Hempstead county representative in the legislature, was escorted from the convention hall by a sergeant-at-arms when he persisted in attempts to gain the floor while Belgrano was being introduced by State Commander Vincent M. Miles, of Fort Smith.

"Mr. Chairman," called out Cannon as Miles went into his introductory remarks.

"This is a set program and will not be interrupted," replied Miles, refusing to recognize the delegate.

When Cannon again called out for recognition, the state commander motioned to Sergeant-at-Arms Sam Crawford, of El Dorado, and Cannon smilingly left the convention hall with the sergeant.

In a statement issued immediately afterward, Cannon said:

"It looks like the American Legion has forgotten the principle of free speech."

"I was a duly accredited delegate sitting in my own seat and arose and asked the privilege of the floor, addressing the commander. They knew exactly what I intended to say for I had expressed my opinions freely around the hotel lobby last night."

"I had intended to ask that Mr. Belgrano be denied the privilege of speaking and they knew it. Mr. Belgrano was not here as a guest, nor were we hosts. He was here as a paid official of the American Legion and was charging the Legion for his expenses and per diem."

"I intended to tell the convention, and they knew it, that we went to a Miami last year and elected him because we thought he was a good man. We also passed a resolution asking for the cash payment of the bonus. He double-crossed us."

Given Right to Speak.

Legion officials said they had sent word to Cannon, at his hotel, that he would be permitted to speak on any subject he chose at tomorrow's business sessions.

In a prepared address, intermingled with an appeal for world peace, Belgrano told the Arkansas department convention "What America needs is an immediate and thorough reawakening of the spirit of Americanism. We do not anticipate any revolution, but we are mobilized to a man to combat and drive out these un-American groups."

Touching on the Legion's bonus payment bill, Belgrano said "it is high time for the veterans to tell their congressmen and senators that they are tired of being taken up blind alleys."

Ocean Steamer Tied to Apple Tree Among Queer Sights Seen in Brazil

The Rev. Henry E. Russell Joins Hands With Other Passengers Aboard Ship in War to Death Against a Common Foe—the Mosquito.

This is the ninth of a series of articles by the Rev. Henry Edward Russell, of McDonough, Ga., as he travels through South America. Mr. Russell's experiences and observations will be reported daily for Constitution readers.—Editor's Note.

UP THE AMAZON 600 MILES. Aug. 9.—Back in Belem it was a strange sight to see six men carrying a piano on their heads, and beholding this one might wonder if a queer dream had possessed him, but to see an ocean steamer longer than a football field and weighing thousands of tons tied up to an apple tree in a man's front yard was one sight with the notion of a tropical sun has reached the brain. A trip ashore confirmed the sight as genuine with one exception—the "apple" tree was guava instead.

The ship stopped here in 10 fathoms of water not 30 yards from shore to take on hundreds of enormous anodized logs, a species of mahogany bound for the furniture factories of Portugal. This village, sizzling here on a tributary of the Amazon, is composed of about a half dozen thatched mud huts placed on the knoll of a grassy slope that reaches to the water's edge. It is named Desaperta. Queer enough, the name means "to get you out of a hole"—the greatest need of those who find themselves stranded here. An attorney unfortunate enough to have to come here for evidence was happy to join our company. The "evidence," said to us, was lost with another piece of baggage in his efforts to board the ship.

Tomorrow: Southerner's Home in the Wilds of Brazil.

Not far away is a colony of Japanese who have sought to solve the problem of overpopulation for that island empire by moving to this locality. There are three of these colonies in the Amazon basin, one here, one near Belem and another at Monte Alegre, a town located on the left bank about a hundred miles east of this point. They have their own school of tropical agriculture where newcomers are trained before they are allowed to settle permanently. The Japanese concessions in this territory include an area of more than 5,000 square miles, which they govern entirely. Smart, ambitious and industrious, these colonists are bound to be heard from in the future of this country.

Judging from the situation here at present, three nations—the United States, England and Japan—are bidding for the trade of this vast area along the Amazon and apparently the gesture of Japan is the most promising. The fact that from the United States there is only one steamship line running direct to the Amazon and it doesn't fly the Stars and Stripes.

During our stay here, near the shore, the 12 passengers and the 8 nationalities have joined hands against a common foe—mosquitoes. The air is full alive with these blood suckers and they have turned people who are otherwise reasonable, into a band of slapping, swatting, fanning, fighting, frenzied miseries. It is not only the unpleasantness and pain of being punctured by this pestiferous insect, but the true hazard is found in the fact that somewhere down here is the yellow fever carrier, and each sting presents the question, what kind was it? One frantic passenger made the assertion that in a hundred trips up and down this river never had he seen the mosquitoes so bad.

Friendliness Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I have been hoping somebody else would take up the pen-and-ink defense of mothers-in-law, but since nobody has, I am doing it. When my husband took me to his mother's home she was a widow of 60 and I was a mere child of 19, spoiled and ignorant. I was desperately in love with my husband and grateful to her for giving him to me. She immediately began to give me a liberal education in housekeeping and I wasn't a good pupil. She was kind, patient and un-critical. When she thought I had mastered the subject sufficiently she said to me: "Now, my dear, this is your home. I want you to take charge. I shall never interfere but am always ready to help you when you ask me to." She has stuck to her word, has never interfered and has never refused to come to my rescue. I love her as much as I love my own mother and she loves me quite as much as she loves her own son. The outcome of our life together is entirely due to her. She is wise, kind, far-seeing and fair-minded. So there are some good mothers-in-law after all.

D. H.

Answer: There are plenty of good mothers-in-law but they don't raise the newspapers. There is nothing spectacular about them. Oftentimes they live and die without being mentioned in print except when they are married and buried. Their families take them for granted, their friends and neighbors respect them and admire them and they have their reward in the consciousness that they have made good at the hardest job on earth. There is not a mother living but talks piously about the way she is going to treat her in-law daughters. She has seen all the pitfalls in the way. She has observed and criticized every type of unlabeled mother-in-law: the meddlesome, the domineering, the jealous, the greedy, the hypocritical and the neglectful. Yet when all the boasting is done and all the wish-thinking expressed, nine out of ten women haven't got what it takes to treat a son's wife in such a way that loving relations can exist between them.

Not long ago a strong-willed, dominating mother was indulging in this pleasant pastime of telling a group of friends how she was going to treat her son's wife. Mind you, she kept a scissors grip on each of her sons. She has told them what to do and when to do it; they recognize their master's voice have obeyed. Yet this is what she said: "I am never going to thwart one of my sons in the choice of a wife and when they are married, no matter who they marry I am never going to have anything to say in criticism or suggestion. They can lead their own lives without any interference from me." A howl went up from the crowd and one woman who had more temerity than the rest replied: "If you are a bed-ridden invalid, deaf, dumb and blind, you may go through with that program, otherwise you will make the daughters-in-law jump through the ropes just as you have made your sons do." And so she will.

There is something in the in-law relations that brings out all the tigerish tendencies in a woman's nature and particularly is it true with her son's wife. She may have been a devoted mother to him, yet she will run the risk of alienating him from her by showing antagonism toward the woman he loves when, if she stops to think, she knows the only way to keep him close is to be friendly toward his wife. A mother who has justified everything her children have done, right or wrong, will be outspoken in her criticism of a daughter-in-law who doesn't toe the mark. If there is an altercation between the young couple, instead of hiding the fact that her sympathies are with her son, (blood being thicker than water), she rushes to his defense. If they are estranged and get in debt it is not her son's fault but the wife's. When the grandchildren show ugly traits of character she remarks: "Well, they didn't get that from their father." There are some of the reasons for the black eye given to mothers-in-law.

There are good mothers-in-law, women who are wise, kind, far-seeing and fair-minded, and it is pleasant to read of one who is properly appreciated by her son's wife.

BRITISH TRADE UNION FLAYS DICTATORSHIPS

President of Congress Denounces Mussolini for 'Unjust Attack' on Ethiopia.

MARGATE, England, Sept. 2.—(AP) William Kean, president of the British Trade Union Congress, opened its sixty-seventh annual session today with a call for a "finish fight" against dictatorships.

During his presidential address he stirred loud applause with a suggestion that closing the Suez canal would bring Mussolini's East African campaign to a standstill.

He urged the 2,400,000 worker members of the trade union organization to resist dictatorships whose "nasty, poor, ignorant and brutish" acts threaten the peace of Europe.

"I believe a deadly danger for mankind lies in the possibility of fascist dictatorship covering its failure at home by a successful imperialistic adventure abroad," he told the congress, whose sessions are being attended by Henry F. Schmal and Dennis Lane, representing the American Federation of Labor.

"It is beyond question," he went on, "that dictatorships, established by terrorism and violence in Italy, Germany, Austria and other European countries have failed utterly to solve the problems of the economic crisis."

"With fascism in its final phase of lawless and criminal defiance of public law and of the people's will for peace, we must not and will not fail, as trade unionists, to support a policy which will hasten the end of dictatorship."

Kean singled out Mussolini for special attack, saying the Italian premier "has defied the world's condemnation with his unjust and rapacious assault on Ethiopia," and his breaking of treaties.

"In my opinion," he said, "the League council has one plain duty to perform and the League cannot survive if that duty is shirked. Italy can be coerced if she cannot be persuaded. War is a certainty unless Italy is restrained."

ASTRID'S LAST RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Leopold Refuses Rest and Stays Near-by as Belgium
Honors Dead Queen.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Young King Leopold paid scant heed to his own injuries and refused to rest today, staying instead close to the body of his queen, Astrid, to watch the slowly moving lines of mourners come to pay their last respects.

Court officials sought to persuade the king to go to Stuyvenberg castle, where his three now motherless children are staying. But the monarch chose to remain near Astrid until she is laid to rest tomorrow in a royal crypt at Laeken.

The gates to the royal palace were closed tonight, and Astrid's body was placed in a rich, satin-lined coffin of silver and mahogany on which rested a large silver crucifix.

The funeral arrangements were similar to those for King Albert, who died in a mountain-climbing accident, save that Albert's coffin was borne to his crypt on a gun carriage symbolic of his heroic war deeds, while Astrid's will be carried in a hearse.

Leopold to Go on Foot.
King Leopold himself, who suffered a broken rib and other injuries in the automobile accident that took the life of his queen, will follow her coffin on foot.

Workers completed their draping in black of the magnificent, eleventh century Cathedral of Sainte Godelieve, where the funeral mass will be said.

Two thousand were seated, facing one another inside the choir space, one for the king and the other for the queen.

After the mass, the procession will start at 10:15 a. m. (4:15 a. m. Atlanta time), headed by a military detachment, escorting Astrid's body to the royal vault in the Church of Our Lady of Laeken, where she will be placed beside Albert, whom she loved so dearly.

Street lamps were covered with crepe all along the procession route, which is the same as that followed after the funeral for King Albert less than two years ago.

Children Not to Attend.
The queen's three young children, who have been told of their mother's death, but they will not witness her funeral.

The pallbearers will be members of the Belgian and foreign royal families, members of the diplomatic corps and government officials.

Brussels assumed an ever deeper aspect of mourning at nightfall to-night as the funeral guns started firing hourly in a last requiem to the dead queen.

CLEVELAND PAIR HOP FOR ARGENTINA DASH

Duo Will Go Leisely, Try
Non-Stop 6,400-Mile Return Flight.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Round for the Argentine and a return flight in search of a new world's non-stop distance flying record, James C. Prosser and Gilbert Stoll took off late today on their leisurely southward journey.

They left hearing the cheers of thousands who had just witnessed the victory of Harold Harold Neumann, of Moline, Ill., in the Thompson trophy race at the national air races.

In their Bellanca biplane they will fly by easy stages to Bahia Aires, 400 miles south of Buenos Aires. The Cleveland fliers hope to set a non-stop record on the flight back to Cleveland, 6,400 miles.

Their first stop on the southward flight will be New Orleans, they said. They hope to make a refueling stop in 70 hours, their most difficult hazard being a narrow pass in the Andes mountains.

If they are successful, America will regain the supremacy in long-distance flights. The present record for straight-line non-stop flight is 5,627 miles, set by Maurice Rossi and Paul Godes, of France, when they flew from New York to Syria in 1933.

The Americans John Polando and the late Russell Boardman flew from New York to Turkey in 1932 for a distance of 5,014 miles.

Prosser and Stoll's plane is a Bellanca powered with a new 420-horsepower motor. The ship itself is one in which Boardman had planned a non-stop flight to Rome, to be followed by a record flight back to the United States.

A precaution against the perils of flying over jungle and mountain country and several long stretches of water, the fliers have equipped their plane with emergency supplies of food and water, fire arms, a collapsible boat and a two-way radio set which will furnish communication facilities throughout the trip.

The flight is being backed by a large group of Cleveland manufacturing concerns and aviation interests of Cleveland and northern Ohio.

The northward flight will bring them past Buenos Aires, Rosario, Santa Fe, Tucuman, Salta, Inique and up the Pacific coast to Quito.

of the 1935 races, winning the third straight race of the L. W. Greve trophy event yesterday.

The winning plane today was "Mr. Mulligan," the ship flown by Beany Homan in winning the Bendix transcontinental event Friday. He nosed out Turner in the Bendix race by 23.12 seconds.

The other finishers, in order, and their speeds were:
Roger Don Rae, of Lemont, Ill., 213.492; Joe Jacobson, of Chicago, 209.103; Lee Miles, of Farmingdale, Long Island, 193.594; Marjorie McKee, of Los Angeles, 188.859.

Neumann's victory brought him a prize of $6,750. His time was 40 minutes, 22.78 seconds.

It was the slowest speed for the Thompson race since 1930, when "Speed" Homan won at 201.90 miles an hour. The highest speed ever made in this event was in 1932, when James H. Doolittle set a mark of 252.68 miles an hour.

Percy V. Chaffee, of Lake Delton, Wis., won the first race today with a speed of 119.657 miles an hour. Chaffee won a free-for-all race for men pilots, limited to planes with motors of 200 cubic inches displacement or less. The distance was 10 miles.

Al K. Hall Jr., of Los Angeles, was second with a speed of 114.401 miles an hour and Clarence MacArthur, of Tampa, Fla., was third with 114.376 miles an hour.

Art Chester, of Glenview, Ill., won today's free-for-all race for planes with motors of 375 cubic inches displacement or less. His average speed for the 40-mile distance was 200.565 miles an hour, and the victory brought him a $1,575 prize.

Lee Miles, of Tulsa, Okla., was second, S. J. Wilkins, of Wichita, Wis., third; Harold Neumann in a Ford and Neumann plane, fourth, and Joe Jacobson, of Kansas City, fifth.

Peace Declared Only Thin Mask In Strike-Torn Carolina Village

By RALPH T. JONES,
CONSTITUTION Staff Correspondent.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 2.—Carolina national guardsmen this afternoon once more tied down the valve on the boiling labor situation at Pelzer, mill village 18 miles from here, before the blow-off of tense human emotions this morning had left one woman dead and a score or more of other people wounded.

Only last Friday Governor Olin D. Johnston had withdrawn troops who had been on guard at the Pelzer Manufacturing Company mills on strike duty for 35 days. This morning, just before the mill whistle blew, workers and pickets clashed in five minute battles that brought death—and injuries which may prove mortal. To-night 120 strikers and their officers are once more tented on the mill grounds, sentries with loaded rifles tramp their monotonous rounds and the little village of Pelzer has resumed the mask of perfect southern peace.

Yet, when I visited the place this afternoon and talked with strikers, local workers, merchants of the town and troops, it was immediately evident that peace is but a thin mask, that behind the studiedly expressionless faces of the people hides a tense and fierce partisanship, ready to flare forth with sticks and clubs and smoking guns at the next opportunity.

Groups stand about the mill and gather in the village stores. They have little to say and there is a strange uniformity in their replies.

"Well, I don't really know nothing about it, Mister. I wasn't at the fight myself, but they tell me it was right hot while it lasted. Yes, it was tough about the woman. No, I didn't know her. Couldn't say whether she was a striker or not."

If Mrs. Gertrude Kelly, the slain woman, had lived in the village for years, as they say, she must have enacted the role of an invisible woman, for no one would admit positive knowledge as to whether she worked in the mill or not.

Asserting these traditions are "in the balance," the speaker charged the administration in Washington is "trying to break them down with patronage."

He said the patronage is paid for out of tax money to white-collared men "to laugh and scorn at the working people," adding: "Not only working people but religious people are looked on as queer by a great many of our officials high in authority."

"According to the figures of the National Industrial Conference Board, there were 9,920,000 people unemployed in September, 1933, and in May, 1935, we are advised that there are still 9,511,000 people without employment."

Last week Talmadge, democratic national committeeman from Georgia, was thrust into the seat of bolting democrats from the New Deal whose purpose "constitutionally" in opposition to the New Deal.

In Atlanta, Ga., the New Deal foe denied knowledge of the third party group.

"I'm not interested in third parties," he said. "As democratic national committeeman from Georgia it is my duty to help the party on to victory in the 1936 campaign, and I will do all I can to defeat the renomination of Roosevelt at the next convention. Instead the party must nominate standard bearers of true democratic principles."

The Georgian scored federal relief activities, saying the government's latest venture "is a historic study of safety pins" and approval of $20,642,700 of "white-collar" projects in New York city.

Along with all of these white-collar jobs, the activities of the relief have gone out in the country and demoralized farm laborers, where cotton picking, corn pulling and wheat harvesting is a real problem to the farmers and taxpayers who are paying the fiddler for all this music and dancing," he added.

"The real business is composed of very smart people. They inaugurated a boom-dragging course, and the graduates form the minor brain-trusters for the relief activities."

Plays Communism.
As a son of the south, Talmadge urged his people and "you sturdy patriots" to the north to "join hands and return to Americanism" and the traditions of the forefathers.

"Don't let communism run riot in this land," he implored. "Don't sell

Peace Declared Only Thin Mask In Strike-Torn Carolina Village

By RALPH T. JONES,
CONSTITUTION Staff Correspondent.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 2.—Carolina national guardsmen this afternoon once more tied down the valve on the boiling labor situation at Pelzer, mill village 18 miles from here, before the blow-off of tense human emotions this morning had left one woman dead and a score or more of other people wounded.

Only last Friday Governor Olin D. Johnston had withdrawn troops who had been on guard at the Pelzer Manufacturing Company mills on strike duty for 35 days. This morning, just before the mill whistle blew, workers and pickets clashed in five minute battles that brought death—and injuries which may prove mortal. To-night 120 strikers and their officers are once more tented on the mill grounds, sentries with loaded rifles tramp their monotonous rounds and the little village of Pelzer has resumed the mask of perfect southern peace.

Yet, when I visited the place this afternoon and talked with strikers, local workers, merchants of the town and troops, it was immediately evident that peace is but a thin mask, that behind the studiedly expressionless faces of the people hides a tense and fierce partisanship, ready to flare forth with sticks and clubs and smoking guns at the next opportunity.

Groups stand about the mill and gather in the village stores. They have little to say and there is a strange uniformity in their replies.

"Well, I don't really know nothing about it, Mister. I wasn't at the fight myself, but they tell me it was right hot while it lasted. Yes, it was tough about the woman. No, I didn't know her. Couldn't say whether she was a striker or not."

If Mrs. Gertrude Kelly, the slain woman, had lived in the village for years, as they say, she must have enacted the role of an invisible woman, for no one would admit positive knowledge as to whether she worked in the mill or not.

your birthright for a mess of pottage," he stated.

"Americanism is a doctrine of no particular section of the United States. It is the jewel of no party."

"The old line republicans and the old line democrats adhere to the traditions of our forefathers with equal pride and love."

Asserting these traditions are "in the balance," the speaker charged the administration in Washington is "trying to break them down with patronage."

He said the patronage is paid for out of tax money to white-collared men "to laugh and scorn at the working people," adding: "Not only working people but religious people are looked on as queer by a great many of our officials high in authority."

BUST OF F. L. STANTON PRESENTED TO SCHOOL

Noted Georgia Poet Honored
by Lions Club at Smithville.

SMITHVILLE, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP) Frank Leiby Stanton, Georgia poet laureate, who sold his mother's reading aloud from the Methodist hymnal taught him all he knew of poetic technique, was memorialized here today in the unveiling of a marble bust.

The bust, a gift from the Lions Club to Smithville High school, was unveiled on the school campus by Stanton's only two granddaughters, Misses Marcelle Stanton Megawh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Megawh, of Atlanta, and Dorothy Stanton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Stanton Jr.

The bust was executed from a photograph by Mrs. Margaret Cooper Jackson, of Smithville. It betokens the beginning of Stanton's literary career, made while he was editor of the Smithville News. It also is in memory of the fact that Stanton found in Smithville the woman who became his wife. She was before her marriage Miss Leona Jolley.

"Smithville is an honored city for having produced the woman who inspired the inspiration for Stanton's beautiful song, 'Just a Wearying for You,'" Dr. W. F. Melton, of Atlanta, the poet's old friend and admirer, said in an eulogy delivered at the unveiling.

Another of Stanton's songs, "Nighty Lak a Rose," was sung during the dedication and the new Georgia poet laureate, Eugene Brinson, 30-year-old Savannah man, is being held in the British consulate jail at Hankow, China, awaiting the United States State Department's order. Julius Leach, of Jackson, Miss., his companion, is being held with him. Associated Press photo.

Improvement in Chain Gang System
Is Forecast at Dedication of Prison

Senator Pope Lauds President as Cornerstone of $1,500,000 Tattall Buildings Is Laid; Hugh Howell Says Milledgeville Plant Will Not Be Abandoned.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Improvement of Georgia's prison system, a subject of criticism for years, was discussed by various speakers today as the cornerstone was laid for the new $1,500,000 state penitentiary near here.

The imposing prison, now about 30 per cent complete, is rising in the center of a 7,000-acre tract of fine farm land acquired at a cost of about $120,000.

In some quarters, the construction of the new prison is regarded as another step toward abolition of chain gangs, subject of the criticism of the prison system. A letter from the state recently attacked the chain gang system as a whole as brutal, demanding the resignation of two convict camp wardens and a few other officials for their capable administration of their camps.

750 STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK AT CHICOPEE

The employees, who left their jobs in the mill August 8 on a strike, returned to work today.

The strike was one of the most peaceful in the history of the state. Although workers picketed the plant, no disorders were reported and throughout the strike workers and management conferred frequently in what each side described as "perfectly harmonious" sessions.

Cravey Wins Victory
in Fish Trap Cases

Judge Graham Upholds
Commissioner in Emanuel
County Action.

McRAE, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A triple victory was accorded Zack D. Cravey, state commissioner of game and fish today, in his legal difficulties over the repeated destruction of fish traps in a pond in Emanuel county.

Judge Eschel Graham, of the Oconee judicial circuit, who heard the case, wrote his opinion this week-end.

In the first case, involving contempt proceedings against Cravey and his agents over destruction of the traps of Will McMillan, operator of a fishing resort in Emanuel county, were dismissed.

The court held that Cravey and his aides did not violate a temporary injunction obtained by McMillan since the fish traps were destroyed before they had been notified of it. He added that it was "refreshing to find a game protector making a bona fide effort to enforce the law."

In the second case, McMillan was denied a permanent injunction restraining Cravey and his agents from interfering with the traps and the temporary injunction was dissolved.

In the third, McMillan was temporarily enjoined from operating a fish trap or from interfering with Cravey or his agents in destroying such a trap.

Cravey Wins Victory in Fish Trap Cases

Judge Graham Upholds
Commissioner in Emanuel
County Action.

McRAE, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A triple victory was accorded Zack D. Cravey, state commissioner of game and fish today, in his legal difficulties over the repeated destruction of fish traps in a pond in Emanuel county.

Judge Eschel Graham, of the Oconee judicial circuit, who heard the case, wrote his opinion this week-end.

In the first case, involving contempt proceedings against Cravey and his agents over destruction of the traps of Will McMillan, operator of a fishing resort in Emanuel county, were dismissed.

The court held that Cravey and his aides did not violate a temporary injunction obtained by McMillan since the fish traps were destroyed before they had been notified of it. He added that it was "refreshing to find a game protector making a bona fide effort to enforce the law."

In the second case, McMillan was denied a permanent injunction restraining Cravey and his agents from interfering with the traps and the temporary injunction was dissolved.

In the third, McMillan was temporarily enjoined from operating a fish trap or from interfering with Cravey or his agents in destroying such a trap.

Peruchians Dramatic In New Erlanger Play

The Peruchians show unusual dramatic ability this week-end in the play, "The Natural Law," at the Erlanger theater. The story deals with one of our foremost social problems, birth control. Highly appealing and filled with human emotions, the play presents the problems of the characters with adroit touches of pathos, heartaches, love and humor.

The current showing is a slightly revised version of "Her Unborn Child," which played with great success in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and other metropolitan centers. In essence, the play holds its original form and the change in name is probably a matter of wise policy. The script portrays an open social subject with frankness and wisdom. The only reason a child under 18 years of age is not advised to attend is that the play might not prove as entertaining as to an older person.

Perhaps the New York Journal printed the most enlightening interpretation in its notice on a return engagement at the Forty-Eighth Street theater. Says the Journal:

"It is a splendid piece, rich in heart interest, well-balanced in comedy-relief and workmanlike in construction. It discloses frankly, but never vulgarly, one of the great universal problems of today, birth control. The play never once offends good taste or good judgment and its amusement value is as great for the masses as for the first night sophisticates."

Fine touches of humor come at welcome spots and never does the play border on farce.

It is always a good sign, for the success of a play, to see the actors enthusiastic over the script and over their particular parts. It forecasts good character delineation and a smooth-riding performance. That is just what happened when the Peruchians were rehearsing last week. And they show it in the fine performance this week.

REDS WILL IGNORE WARNING BY U. S.

Russians Will Not Deprive
Hull of Last Word in Incident.

MOSCOW, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Russian officials showed no disposition today to deprive Secretary of State Hull of the last word in the incident which arose out of the communist international activities.

They said, laconically, there is "no reaction" to report in connection with Hull's statement on the future relations between the nations depend on strict adherence by the Soviet Union to their pledge of non-interference with American affairs.

Foreign observers, having noticed the statement was met with most complete silence, expressed the opinion both sides may now rest on their oars with little likelihood of an early repetition of the situation which gave rise to the protest.

The act does not affect war veterans, he said.

Sally Forth Soliloquizes Today Over This and That Social Chatter

By Sally Forth.

LETTERS bearing an English stamp with a picture of His Majesty, King George, tell Sally of the wonderful time being had by Mrs. Charles F. Rice, her daughters, Miss Mary Rice and Mrs. Dudley Golding, (the former Georgia Rice, who lives in Dallas, Texas): the trio being on a late summer vacation to Bermuda.

They were first thrilled as they rode in the quaint, yet modern little railroad, one of the smallest in the world. They have been guests at the Castle Harbour hotel in Tuckers' Town and have enjoyed all the various beauties and pleasures afforded at this popular all-year 'round colony in mid-ocean.

En route to New York by train, Mrs. Rice and Mary write that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkins were on the train, and arriving in New York they saw Mrs. Ernest E. Dallis and Espie shopping on Fifth Avenue. The Rices and Mrs. Golding are back in the states now and at this writing they are at the United States hotel in Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

The hotel, famous since the days before the War Between the States, is open for the racing season. The Atlantans were accompanied by Lady Luck, as they were winners in several of the races. Leaving the famous racing city they will go to Montreal and then on to the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec before returning to their Peachtree road residence.

EMILY HELEN GILLHAM, three-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gillham, of Knoxville, Tenn., is the proud possessor of several valuable silver teaspoons. The baby's mother is the former Miss Frances Holsenbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Marshall Holsenbeck, of this city. The spoons were presented to baby Emily by her great-grandmother, Mrs. Emily Dixon Kiser, member of a prominent Georgia family.

Emily is a member of the sixth generation in her family to own the valuable spoons. They belonged originally to Mrs. Emily Fleming, of West Point, Ga., who was Mrs. Kiser's grandmother and the baby's great-great-grandmother. The baby bears the names of her two great-grandmothers. Her great-grandmother on her paternal side is Mrs. Helen Montague Tucker, a representative of distinguished Tennessee families.

With her parents the baby arrived last Saturday from Knoxville to pay her first visit to her grandparents here. The visit was made for the specific purpose to have her christened and the ceremony took place Sunday afternoon at Mr. and Mrs. Holsenbeck's residence on Washita avenue.

For this important occasion Emily was dressed in the exquisite cream-colored batiste robe worn by her mother when she was christened. Bishop Warren A. Candler, who also christened the baby's mother, officiated at the impressive service.

IF THE old adage to the effect that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach" has any truth to it, a certain attractive Atlantian, who is employed by a prominent refining company here, picked a most appropriate moment for asking an Atlanta doctor for the hand of his charming daughter. He took his prospective father to a lunch room down town the latter part of last week, and between courses, he broached the question nearest his heart. The young man confesses that he had several opportunities before, but he "just didn't get around to it."

The beautiful young bride-to-be is one of Atlanta's most popular members of the younger set, having made her debut here two years ago. She is a member of the Phi Pi High School Club, and was among the attractive Atlantians who attended the University of Georgia, and was a popular member of the Phi Mu sorority there. She is now the proud possessor of a lovely ring.

It has a beautifully cut diamond, surrounded by a large number of smaller ones.

LABOR DAY week-end brought to Atlanta Libby and Taylor Land and Jane Treseder, their sister, who made the trip from New York to visit Judge and Mrs. Max Land and Anne Woodruff. Not until they reached Charlotte did the visitors advise their hosts that they were en route to Atlanta to spend the week-end.

Joy reigned in two households as a result of the telegram and telephone messages conveyed the welcome news to friends of Libby, Taylor and Jane, who rallied around the trio every moment they were here.

FEATHER IN HER HAT

By Julie Anne Moore

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Ann Rogers and Rita Manley, back in Elmville from college, get civil service jobs in Washington. Rita knows Bill Hudson, correspondent there for a New York paper. He is a friend of Mollie Winslow, special writer on the Globe, with whom the girls stay temporarily. Mollie gets a mysterious phone message that Furman Wells, Senator Runbreaker's secretary, is lying murdered in the Lincoln Memorial's reflecting pool but he is at her office door when she sees by Selma a phone message reports Wells dead in the reflecting pool. The guests find Wells himself there pointing to a body in the water. A bomb explodes and he is found dead in the pool, wire twisted about his neck. Wells' death is reported as a suicide but Selma tells Bill he was murdered. She says she planted the dummy body to cause excitement at the dinner. Up in a plane with Lee, Ann is surprised when they land at Elmville. Returning, they are wrecked on a mountain. Ann escaping with a scalp wound but Lee's leg is broken. A searching plane finds them a day later. Mollie, returning with the president's wife from Boston, meets Ann in their home apartment in Elmville. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

When they reached the hotel, Selma went directly to Deane's room and came back with the report that her brother was not there. She seemed so distressed that Ann wondered if Deane had told his sister he planned to bolt at the first opportunity.

Bill agreed, reluctantly, to do what he could. "I think you're needlessly worried, though," Deane's probably not having a good time for himself.

At midnight, Mollie had a call from Carl. "No luck yet," he told her. "Bill and I slipped up somewhere. If he calls you, tell him I'll meet him at the Tremont street subway entrance."

But Bill did not call and at 1:30, Mollie told Selma to go to bed. "There's nothing to worry about," she said confidently. She wondered if Selma knew that Deane was under suspicion, and if not, why she should be so concerned over Deane's absence.

"I'm going in to see Ann and Rita a minute. If Bill or Carl calls, I'll wake you up."

She found Rita asleep but Ann was writing a note to her mother. Mollie sat on the foot of the bed and kicked off her shoes. "If I got too nosy, Ann," she said, quietly, "you can tell me to mind my own business. I'm curious about you and Lee. I mean— did you two straighten things out?" Ann grinned. "Good old Mother"

Miss Yundt Weds Dr. Von Cannon At Ceremony in Winship Chapel

DR. AND MRS. OLIVER LEON VON CANNON.

The marriage of Miss Marion Graham Yundt and Dr. Oliver Leon Von Cannon of Chattanooga, Tenn., was solemnized at high noon yesterday in a Winship Chapel of the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. J. Sproule Lyon performed the ceremony in the presence of an assemblage of close friends and relatives. The chapel was decorated for the occasion with palms, foliage plants and baskets of Calla lilies and white gladioli.

Cathedral candelabra holding lighted white tapers shed a soft radiance over the impressive setting. Prior to the service Dr. Charles Sheldon, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music.

Wedding Attendants. Wilbur Glenn and John A. Boykin Jr. served as ushers. The bride was accompanied to the altar by her father, George Jacob Yundt, by whom she was given in marriage. O. C. Godfrey, of Chattanooga, Tenn., acted as Dr. Von Cannon's best man. Misses Louise Calhoun and Julian Boykin were bridesmaids. They wore attractive gowns of turquoise blue mousseline de soie with full, graceful, floor-length. The bridesmaids wore gowns of white with high low necklines and short puffed sleeves. They wore picture hats made of mousseline to match their gowns and they carried exquisite bouquets of delphinium in three different shades of blue, the bouquets being tied with wide yellow satin ribbon.

Miss Lucy Yundt, the bride's twin sister, attended her as maid-of-honor, and she wore a gown of yellow mousseline de soie made like those worn by the bridesmaids. Her picture hat was fashioned of yellow mousseline and she carried a bouquet of blue and white flowers.

These are just a few of the symptoms that warn you your child's eyes need attention. Watch their "visual habits" closely.

At the slightest sign of eye-strain have their eyes examined thoroughly.

Coffee

We'll be able to get fresh peaches for quite a while yet, I hope, so let us use them freely in our menus. In my estimation no fruit is quite so delicious as fresh, and peaches are no exception to the rule.

Today's Recipes.

Fresh Peach Upside Down Cake—Four medium sized peaches, two tablespoons butter, one cup sugar, dash cinnamon and nutmeg, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup milk, one tablespoon butter.

Beat eggs until very light with a rotary beater. Beat in salt, sugar and vanilla. Heat milk with butter and when scalding hot, beat into the egg mixture. Beat in flour and baking powder. Pour quickly over fruit mixture and bake in a moderate oven, 45 minutes.

Crackers Drop First Game to Vols, 11-5; Second Rained Out

MAYNARD CLARK WINS 100-MILE RACE FEATURE

Billy Devore Second; Chet Gardner Loses When Axle Breaks.

Maynard Clark kept a heavy foot on the throttle of his Gerber Special, and dust in the goggles of 13 rivals yesterday afternoon at Lakewood park speedway as he won the first 100-mile championship offered over the famous old one-mile dirt track.

The Illinois driver and Chet Gardner, the dirt track champion, fought it out almost wheel to wheel for 21 laps when a broken axle sent Gardner into the pits and out of the race.

Then it was that game little Billy Devore met the challenge and drove a magnificent race to keep lap for lap in pace with Clark. But Clark held his position and won by a quarter of a lap from the game little Los Angeles racer, who had the crowd cheering him as he wheeled his blue Miller Special after Clark.

Clark's time for the 100 miles was 1 hour, 19 minutes and 25 seconds.

NO SMASH-UPS. There were no smash-ups in the long grind. In a preliminary warm-up Harley Taylor, Atlanta boy driving a Scarritt Special, crashed the fence at the north turn, turned over three times and then walked away from the wreck unhurt.

Buster Warke, of Pennsylvania, was third with a Toledo Special, and Milt Marion, of New York, brought his Miller into fourth place. Fifth place went to Cliff Miller.

In ninth place came Red Redmond, of Atlanta, the only Atlanta driver to finish the 100 miles. His ninth place was good for $75.

First place paid Clark $750 and he earned several hundred more in lap prizes to bring his total purse near $1,500 for the victory.

SPECTACULAR BATTLE. He made it an emphatic one. He had the pole position by virtue of a smashing mile in 43.25 seconds on Sunday in the time trials. He kept it at the start and Chet Gardner and he battled it out in a spectacular fashion for the first 15 laps. Gardner never passed him in the 15th lap and Clark regained it in the 18th lap.

He never lost it after that, keeping his Gerber special with its Miller motor, going at a steady speed and handling the turns with great skill and courage.

"I had a swell time winning it," said Clark. "I couldn't have continued our battle as I wanted to win from Chet if possible. But this boy Devore is all anyone can do for me. He never let me ease up a moment. Once there he almost had me."

Clark hopes to be back again this fall for the races at the fair. It all depends on the purses offered. Fall is the season for racers and the period when they earn the most money. It was his first time at Lakewood.

EX-GRID STAR. He is a former college football player at a small college in Illinois.

Clark's first race was at the fair, and he has been at the racing game for 10 years. In addition to the first prize purse and the lap money Clark won the John Stone trophy, the most beautiful that has ever been offered at Lakewood.

A crowd of about 20,000 saw the races from the grandstand outside, and at least 10,000 filled the hills outside the park from which points they would get a long distance view of the race.

The complete list of prize winners was: Maynard Clark, Illinois, first with Gerber Special; Billy Devore, second with Miller Special; Buster Warke, Pennsylvania, third with a Toledo Special; Milt Marion, New York, fourth, with a Miller; Cliff Miller, Detroit, fifth with a Miller; Floyd O'Neil, Dayton, sixth, with a Preston Special; Glen Rock, Detroit, seventh with a Schofield Special; Chick Young, New Orleans, eighth with a Crager; Red Redmond, Atlanta, ninth with a General Special, and Freddie Goff, with a Riley Special, tenth.

Billy Winn Takes Race at Syracuse. SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Billy Winn, of Syracuse City, Mo., flashed ahead of Bill Cummings, of Indianapolis; Al Miller, of Detroit; Doc Mackenzie, of Edinburg, Tex.; and Deacon Leno, of Dubois, Pa., to capture the dirt track century A. A. auto race at the state fair today in 1 hour 11 minutes and 49.28 seconds.

ROSS MEETS FIRPO TONIGHT. Black Jack Ross and Emilio Firpo, two real villains of the mat game, will meet in the feature match tonight at the Key arena.

Demand of the promoters to match the two stars for the first time tonight. One of the roughest matches of the season likely will result.

Both Firpo and Ross have established fine records here. And in their wake they have left some badly bruised foes.

Ross has been the chief offender in this respect and it was for this reason that fans asked that Firpo be given a chance at him.

The card, which features roughness throughout, was moved up to tonight because of yesterday being Labor Day.

Young London, promising Atlanta star, and John (Meanest Man) Mauldin, clash in the one-hour semi-wind-up. London has lost five matches in the past year. His record is threatened tonight.

Norman and John Dameron clash in the 30-minute opening match.

Tickets are on sale at the Five Points Soda Company and may be reserved by calling Main 2539.

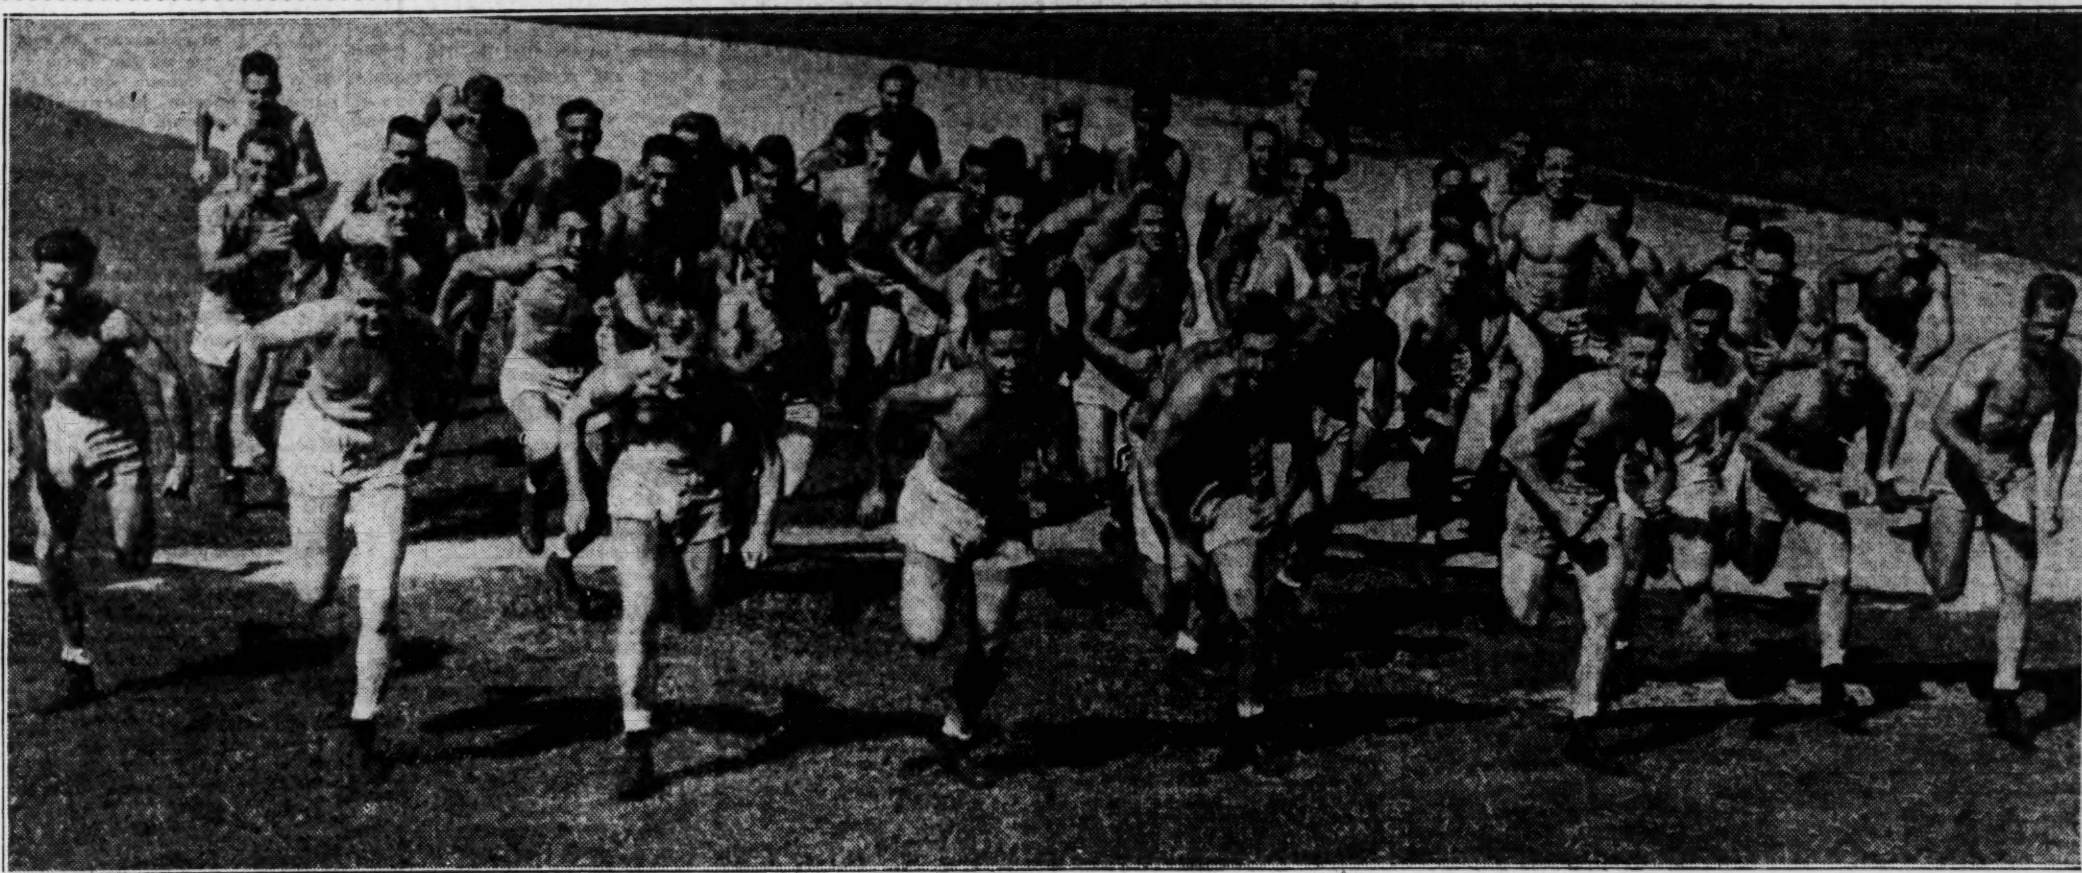

Petrels Practice This Morning. Coach Patrick's Oglethorpe Petrels will hold their first workout of the season today.

The morning workout will be held at 10 o'clock.

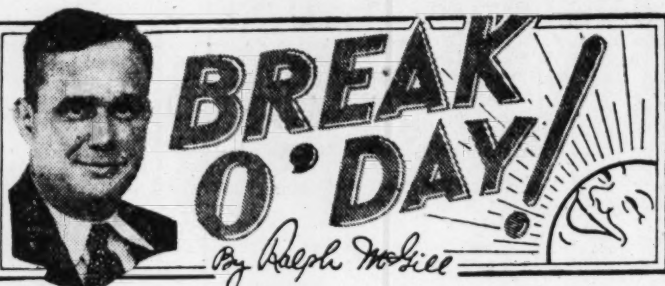

Two-day practices will be held by the depleted squad until Coach Patrick decides the players are in shape.

The Petrels play their first game against Newberry at Ponce de Leon park on the night of September 25.

Here's Looking at You! . . . Husky Tech Players Begin Football Practice at Rose Bowl

PART OF THE SQUAD OF APPROXIMATELY 50 PLAYERS THAT GREETED COACH ALEXANDER YESTERDAY

LAKEWOOD PARK, Sept. 2.—They begin to tune up for the 100-mile automobile race.

And the warm-ups have hardly begun before Harley Taylor, Atlanta driver, gives an exhibition of how the mind works on dual control.

He drives his car hard into the north turn. It goes out of control, swerving sickeningly and then smashing into the retaining fence. The car leaps up like a live thing, turns over in the air and then goes rolling over twice more.

On the last turn it throws Taylor out and he lies beside the car.

He is smacked against the chest of old Mother Earth and the old lady's brisket happens to be rather iron-like out here where the clay is baked and hammered into something resembling iron.

The track is clear. Yet the dazed Taylor struggles to his feet and rushes to the edge of the track where he drops. In a moment the head clears and he walks away.

The dice came seven for him on that roll. He was unhurt. You ask him about it.

"I didn't know what I was doing," he said. "I somehow had an idea I must get off the track. I guess I thought a race was on. And then I came to, over there."

He had an idea he could feel fingers reaching for him as the car whirled in the air, its motor still roaring and the traction wheels spinning.

And they may have been. Yet he walked away from it. Sometimes the dice come seven. You might say that Harley Taylor rolled seven three times in a row there when he walked away from a racing car which smashed the fence and turned over three times.

The thing they call instinct is something to wonder about. He ran off the track because of some mental urging which was urging despite the fact his usual thinking apparatus was dazed.

THE ANNIVERSARY THAT FAILS. You talk to stolid Chet Gardner, dirt track champion before the race begins.

His car is ready, checked thoroughly. While they wait he talks:

"I started racing ten years ago this month out in Colorado. Had an old Ford I'd rebuilt. I won $4,000 that year with it and used it another season to win that much more.

"I like to race in Atlanta," he says. "The people seem to like racing. You know, none of us are forced into this game. We like it and do it because we want to."

Others work with their cars. Gardner waits. When they wheel them out for the start he and Maynard Clark, a new comer in the winners' list, begin the greatest race ever seen at Lakewood.

Both have a brief period in first place. And then Gardner's blue car roars by and he points to a wheel.

He comes around and in 14 seconds flat they have jacked up the car, put on a new wheel, and is gone. But there is trouble. He makes three laps and comes in again. They look at the other tire. His instinct and his experience had told him there was something wrong.

They find an axle broken. In another minute, at their top speed, it would have thrown Gardner into a crash, out of control.

He pushes the car off the track. He is out, the favorite.

There are no experts in the racing game. Not one.

That is to say, there are no experts in the press box. Too many things can happen out there for one to pick winners.

Gold and automobile racing—try and pick them. Now that the Oldfields and the de Palmas and Bobby Jones have quit the game, there isn't a real favorite.

EXPERTS ON THE TRACK. There are experts on the track. Most of them are kids. You talk with Billy Devore. With Chet Gardner gone only Devore proves able to give the dare-devil Maynard Clark a duel.

Clark won from Billy Win and other Indianapolis drivers in a midwest race a few weeks ago and came here an unknown. First there must be the motor. And secondly the driver with a heavy foot and the nerve to hold it down.

Billy Devore's father was a race driver. He died a hero when the steamship Vestris sank a few years ago. He and another race driver, Norman Batten, helped load the lifeboats with women and children and, incidentally, other men. And when there were no more boats they went down with the ship.

Billy Devore is a kid. His face is cruelly scarred from an old wreck in a race years ago when he was learning.

GEORGIA OPENS PRACTICE TODAY

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 2.—The rear guard of the Georgia Bulldogs gridiron hopefuls were trickling into Athens today ready for the opening early season practice which begins Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A lecture by Coach Harry Mehre at 11 o'clock will start the program off. Following this light equipment will be issued for the afternoon's drill. Calisthenics to limber the boys will probably be the main exertion of the day.

Some 45 candidates are expected to be on hand for the opening drill. The schedule until school opens about September 22 will consist of two practices and a lecture daily. The morning practice will be held at 9:30 o'clock. The lecture will be held at 12 noon, and the afternoon drill will come at 3:30 o'clock.

This boasts his weight to around 225. The schedule until school opens about September 22 will consist of two practices and a lecture daily. The morning practice will be held at 9:30 o'clock. The lecture will be held at 12 noon, and the afternoon drill will come at 3:30 o'clock.

He weighs in at around 210, and "my feet are okay." On the other hand, Glenn Johnson, speedy halfback from Savannah, is down to 149, some 10 pounds off.

The squad reports from cities strung throughout the south, east and middle west. Vince Umalley, of Chicago, has been working in an office. Bill Hartman, fullback, has been working with a soft drink company in the east. Clayton Caesar, guard, has also been working in an ice company in Milledgeville. Unfortunately, he dropped a 300-pound block of ice on his feet. He has recovered.

Paul Causey, halfback, worked on a farm down around Deland, Fla., and home town, Charlie Treadway, quarterback, played baseball with the Union Springs, Ala., team during the last half of the season. Froggy Morrison, end, is a member of the squad in Florida during the course of the summer. "Brick" Stone, center, piloted an Athens softball team to the city championship.

The idea of holding early season workouts in Athens instead of at the Athens camp near Tallahassee seemed to meet with favor among the boys. Glenn Johnson was one of the boys expressing their opinions on the plan. The new arrivals seemed to be in top condition and getting ready for the season. The others gathered in soft drink establishments to discuss the prospects for the coming season and their vacation experiences. Meanwhile, coaches of the squad had their last fling at golf until Christmas. All the coaches had arrived in physical trim and ready for the tough grind awaiting them on the gridiron.

Husky Jacket Squad Starts Work at Flats

Approximately Fifty Candidates Answer Call; Team Heavier Than Last Season.

By Jack Troy.

They were rather husky looking, those Tech Jackets as they swarmed over Rose Bowl field yesterday afternoon in the first workout of the season. And it was Labor Day for fair, Coach W. A. Alexander keeping the boys at their conditioning exercises for the better part of two hours.

The weather carried no hint of football, but the Tech players were shorts only and apparently didn't mind the heat. They looked, for the most part, in pretty fair condition.

Observers noted that Coach Alexander, who has always said get the touchdowns first and then worry about the points after, had a few of the boys practicing placements toward the end of the session. It may or may not be an omen.

Only two members of the varsity squad of approximately 50 were not on hand yesterday. They were Sun-dial Martin, back, and R. E. Hood, center.

Martin, who is expected to report any day now, is said to be ready for a good season. He has worked hard all summer.

SQUAD HEAVIER. A first day look at the Jackets which is, of course, no barometer, gave one an idea that the 1936 team will carry a bit more weight in the backfield and may be a trifle heavier in the line.

The ends are good . . . one more tackle may be developed . . . a signal caller must be fashioned from the prospects on hand . . . a good punter is needed . . . Sims, Appleby and Hays kick about the same . . . which is not bad . . . Hayes, Edwards, Sims and Boyd are the passers . . . the guard situation looks okay . . . Jones, Sims and Wilcox are prospective place-kickers.

After the running and passing exercises yesterday there was a spell of signal drill. Clayton Preston was in there at the center position.

The Jackets worked with the line-men and Bobby Dodd with the backs. Coach Alexander was here and there correcting early faults, such as carrying the ball, slopping and so on.

FROGGY PRESENT. Froggy Morrison, Tech 17, was on the sidelines yesterday and liked the look of the squad. Morrison recalled the time when he hit a home run against Georgia on the same field and the third-base coach failed to tell him to stop going into home. So Froggy fairly ran his tongue out to discover that when he crossed the plate the ball had not even been fielded.

The Jackets will practice daily at 3:30 o'clock and will be out of shorts and into the regulation uniforms before very long.

The following players worked out yesterday: Ends—Gibson, Thompson, Morgan, Jones, Jordan, McClure, Allen, Rick-tack, Shilington.

Tackles—Hance, Eubanks, Lind-say, Roberts.

Guards—Brittain, Carmack, Fitz-simmons, Glendinning, Nixon, Wilcox, Carr.

Centers—Preston, Collins.

Quarterbacks—Moore, Sims, Tharpe, Boyd.

Halfbacks—Edwards, Hackett, Hays, Petersen, Calley, McKinley, Raine, Johnson.

Fullbacks—Appleby, Beard, Kone-man, Street.

The Jackets have considerable work ahead before the opening game at Presbyterian at Grant field on September 28. And there is a fine spirit at the Flats. The boys are determined to win themselves some ball games this fall. The idea is to be ready with both barrels for the Blue Streaks.

The remainder of the schedule follows: October 6—Swansea, here. October 12—Kentucky, Lexington. October 18—Duke, here. October 24—North Carolina, Chapel Hill. November 1—Vanderbilt, here. November 8—Auburn, here. November 15—Alabama, Birmingham. November 22—Florida, here. November 29—Georgia, here.

Two practices will be held daily, starting Tuesday, and this program will be in vogue until the Plainsmen start meeting classes on September 11. Much work will be given the boys before the "battle of the lights" with Birmingham-Southern in Montgomery, Friday night, September 27, but the first scrimmage of the season probably will not be held until two weeks.

Early Close Following an annual custom, The Constitution sports pages of this morning closed with the 10 o'clock edition in order to give employees a holiday on Labor Day.

Night games which do not appear because of the early close will be run in ensuing editions of Wednesday morning.

FLORIDA LINE APPEARS WEAK

By John W. Wilds.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Florida's gait through a back-breaking football schedule this season probably will depend upon how well an apparently first-class backfield can perform behind a questionable line.

The Gators again will be hampered by a lack of capable reserves, unless several sophomores strike their stride the first year in the big time.

Among the 23 backs summoned to the first practice session Tuesday, Dutch Stanley and his All-Alumni coaching staff will have the makings of a scintillating ball-toting quartet.

Stanley believes Billy Chase, captain and halfback, is headed for his best year. If the tall Lakeland, Fla., youth has his pitching arm in shape, opponents are warned to polish up their pass defenses.

Chase is a good ball carrier and usually does most of the punting, making him a triple-threat back. He has a first year's absence from the team, but he will be back in shape for some dazzling broken-field running from the fullback position.

Injuries, which kept him out most of last season, Harold Rowe, junior halfback, may turn into a dependable ground gainer. He can smash into line with locomotive force, and cut outside the tackles with a burst of real speed.

Kenneth Eppert and Walter Middleton, both light but shifty, probably will direct the team most of the time. The end and center positions appear to be slated for able hands, but the guards are doubtful, and Starbuck and Stark, Louis' first-string tackles, will be missed.

Six Southeastern conference teams are on the schedule, which follows: September 28, Stetson, at Gainesville; October 12, Tulane, at New Orleans; October 19, Georgia Tech, at Atlanta; October 26, Auburn, at Oxford; November 2, Georgia Tech, at Jacksonville; November 9, Kentucky, at Lexington; November 16, Kansas, at Gainesville; November 23, Georgia Tech, at Atlanta; December 7, South Carolina, at Tampa.

Malon Courts and Jimmy Halverstadt, defending champions, yesterday again won the Georgia state doubles crown by defeating unseeded Russell Roberts and Jimmy Halverstadt in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

Courts and Halverstadt played almost errorless tennis as Bobbitt and Enloe hit easy shots into the net. The champions' placements were too accurate for the two little men.

After the first set Bobbitt had to do most of the hitting, but the experienced team's strategy was such that they played almost constantly to the tiring junior star.

Both Enloe and Bobbitt were weak in their volleying and placements; Courts and Halverstadt never better. Courts and Bobbitt left towns going to New York and Hobbit to Tuscaloosa for the Alabama invitation tournament. They wasted no time and finished the match in an hour.

Commodore Feds Tie Two Games The Feds and Capitol View Methodist played to a 3-to-3 tie in an afternoon game. The game was called at 4 o'clock. Moody, for Capitol View, collected three hits out of five trips to the plate, followed by Maher for two for four. For the Commodore team, Barrett led with three for six. He was the only man on the Fed club to get more than one single off the Capitol pitchers. In the tenth inning, however, he struck out with the bases loaded and two down.

Capitol View . . . 110 100 000 0-3 2 4 Com. Fed. . . 110 100 000 0-3 10 4 Jennings, Wright and Ingram; Smith, Cleir, Nixon and Coleman.

Decatur, Fed Nine In Holiday Tie, 7-7 The Decatur Battery nine and Commodore Feds, members of the City League, played a game yesterday morning which resulted in a 7-to-7 tie. Wright, Lyle and Manning led the hitting for Decatur while Coleman, Trippie and Livingston performed best at the plate for the Commodore Feds.

Decatur Battery . . . 100 000 2 7 8 Commodore Feds . . . 101 002 0-7 10 4 Butcher, Baker, Painter and Foshaw; St. Clair, Nixon and Edwards.

THOMAS ROUTED IN ROUND SEVEN AS FOES RALLY

Nashville Gets 17 Hits Off Thomas and Schmidt To Win.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 2.—The league-leading Crackers pounded Nashville's ace finger, Tiny Chaplin, out of the box in the second inning here today, but fell victims to a rookie's relief hurling and dropped their final contest of the season at Sulphur Dell, 11 to 5.

The second game was called at the end of the second inning on account of rain. The score was tied, 0-0, with Bull Durham working against Sharkey Ellard.

Atlanta started the opener as if it were going to run up one of the highest totals of the season. Chaplin was lambasted for five hits and three runs in the first inning and two more tallies were pushed across in the second on a walk, an error and Alex Hooks' two-bagger. Taitt had to give way to Steamboat Dreisewerd, a big racy-checked left-hander.

UP JUMPS THE DEVIL. With the five-run lead, it looked like a breeze for Bud Thomas. He had retired the first six men to face him in order, two via strikeouts. But up jumped the devil in the third inning in the person of Poco Taitt, home run king of the league.

All of the trouble started when Thomas and Hooks pulled an All-phoney-Gaston on Flairito's pop fly to pitcher's box. It fell safe for a double and Blaemire singled past Chas-han. It looked like Thomas was out of danger when Dreisewerd and New-bourg flied to Harris, but Martin bounced one toward third that took a bad hop over Hille head, scoring Flairito. Shirts doubled an inch inside the right-field foul line, counting both runners and bringing Taitt up to the plate.

Taitt took one pitch, then lifted the second one a mile over the right-field screen for his seventeenth homer of the year, tying the game at 5-5. It rocked along like that until the seventh, when the Vols stole on Younger five-run spree to kato Thomas. They batted around, aided by two errors, to tie the contest. Bill Schmidt relieved and was touched for the last marker in the eighth.

GREAT COMEBACK. It was a great comeback for the Vols and well received by a fine holiday crowd of 6,500. And of course, it did not injure the Crackers, who could well afford the loss at New Orleans was getting another setback by Birmingham.

Rain may have cost the Crackers an even break at that. Durham breezed through the first two innings whiffing Taitt and Rodda and showing no signs of getting a rally. When the drizzle came on, however, the start of the third, Umpire Walsh halted the game and after a 30-minute wait called it.

The game will not be played this season, as the clubs are not allowed to meet again. The Dell has been a hard luck spot for the leaders, who have had seven out of ten contests here.

JEWEL SWINDLE HERE ADMITTED BY RUSSIAN

Memphis Police Hold Man Who Confesses $15,000 Operation in 1927.

A nine-year hunt for an alleged confidence man who is charged with having swindled an Atlanta woman in 1927 out of jewels valued at $15,000 was concluded yesterday with the arrest in Memphis, Tenn., of Boris Dunaevski, internationally known musician.

The Russian was arrested by Police Inspector Will Griffin in Memphis and taken to the city jail. He was charged with having swindled an Atlanta woman in 1927 out of jewels valued at $15,000.

The musician told officers, they reported, that he had met the Atlanta woman and her husband while they were in Cuba and that he had followed them back to Atlanta where, posing as an employee of a famous New York jeweler, had obtained the gems from the woman on the pretense of having them reset by his firm.

"The chase finally got so hot that the musician mailed all of the diamonds except one $1,200 ring back to the Atlanta woman," Griffin declared.

Griffin said that Dunaevski was traced by a picture which had appeared in a newspaper. The musician gave his age as 40 and told police that he was now employed as an instructor of music at the University of Puerto Rico.

The Russian was traced, according to Griffin, to Montreal after he is alleged to have fled a Milwaukee woman of her diamonds and later forged some checks. Thereafter, he was lost until the newspaper picture revealed the man's whereabouts.

Atlanta police said yesterday afternoon that their records of the case were not immediately available. Memphis officers said they would hold the man for Atlanta, Milwaukee and Montreal authorities.

Griffin said his investigation revealed the man had gone under aliases of "Boris Dunaevski," "Boris Smolinski," and "Boris Dunaevski." It was under the name of "Dunaevski," Griffin said, that he was arrested here.

Griffin refused to disclose the names of the Atlanta woman allegedly swindled, saying he "promised not to tell."
